BULGARS INVADE GREEK TERRITORY WITH LARGE FORCE

HELLENIC TROOPS EVACUATE FOUR FORTS WITHOUT OFFERING RESISTANCE—MOVEMENT TOWARD AEGEAN SEAPORT AT KAVALLA.

SERBIAN ARMY IS AT SALONIKI

Only Artillery Bombardments Reported Around Verdun—Italians Claim to Be Repulsing All Austrian Attacks Southeast of Trent and on Isonzo Front.

By the Associated Press.

The Bulgarian invasion of Greek Macedonia has reached to Demir-Hissar and from that town the forces of Bulgarians are said to be making their way southward toward the Aegean seaport of Kavalla, northeast of Saloniki.

Unofficial estimates place the number of the invaders at 25,000. Along the Struma river the Greeks have evacuated the forts of Rupel, Dragotin, Spatovo and Kanevo to the Bulgarians without offering resistance.

Coincidental with the Bulgarian invasion comes a report that the rejuvenated Serbian army—the ancient enemy of the Bulgars—has landed at Saloniki to reinforce the British and French troops already there. This force has been estimated at 80,000 to 100,000 officers and men. It was reorganized on the island of Corfu.

Only artillery bombardments have been in progress on the French front around Verdun. No infantry attacks have been made. Around LeMort Homme, northwest of Verdun, and in the sector west of the Thiaumont farm, northeast of the fortress, the bombardments have been violent. In the Argonne the French have captured craters caused by the explosion of German mines, and in Alsace have put down an attempt of the Germans to advance. In the fighting of Saturday night the Germans in the Champagne region at several points penetrated the French line and took 100 prisoners.

Petrograd reports an attempt of the Germans in the lake Drisviati region to start an offensive. The movement was stopped by the concentrated artillery and rifle fire of the Russians.

The Austrians are still on the offensive against the Italians in the region southeast of Trent but Rome reports that wherever infantry attacks were started the Austrians met with repulse. On the Isonzo front at San Michele, the Italians in mining operations drove the Austrians from the mountain and took the defenders of them under their rifle fire and they fled.

Turkish contingents which tried to advance against the Russians on the Caucasus front in the region of Rivan-douza-Dergal were repulsed by the Russians, according to Petrograd.

Greece Makes Protest.

Paris, May 28.—Greece's protests against the military operations undertaken by the Bulgarians in Macedonia were forwarded last night to Greek ministers at Berlin, Vienna and Sofia.

The Bulgarians entered Greek territory unopposed. This has caused the least comment in the press and considerable agitation among the populace. The belief is general here that the Greek government will confine its action to a protest.

Serbian Army Reorganized.

Paris, May 28.—After crossing the Aegean sea without loss, the Serbian army in full strength now has been landed at Saloniki, according to a dispatch received here today by wireless telegraph.

Serbia's new army has been variously estimated to number between 80,000 and 100,000 officers and men. It was reorganized on the island of Corfu, which is approximately 700 miles distant by water from Saloniki.

The army totalled about 300,000 men at the outbreak of the war.

When the reorganization had been completed the allies sought permission of the Athens government to transport the soldiers from Corfu to the base at Saloniki, across Greek territory by rail. This would have cut down the length of the journey by some 500 miles, besides lessening the danger of attack on the transports by Teutonic submarines.

Greece, however, steadfastly refused to allow the troops to cross her territory, taking the stand that it would be violation of her neutrality, and she is reported to have persisted in her refusal in the face of threats by the entente allies to employ force.

Two weeks ago an arrangement was made whereby the entente powers decided to transport the Serbians to Saloniki by sea.

James J. Hill Very Sick Man

By the Associated Press.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—James J. Hill, critically ill here, passed a restless, unsatisfactory day. Intermittently the patient was unconscious.

At 9 o'clock tonight it was said that the patient's condition showed no improvement aside from the fact that he seemed slightly more restless than at any time during the day.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the following bulletin was issued: "Condition tonight less favorable and on account of the patient's age the outlook becomes extremely serious."

William J. Mayo said: "Mr. Hill is a very, very sick man."

FT. DOUAUMONT, WAR'S SLAUGHTER HOUSE

Massive block of concrete, part of Fort Douaumont's defensive wall, dislodged by explosion of mine.

Fort Douaumont commands the attention of the world. This fort is the pawn of the Verdun front. It has changed hands several times and is now held by the Germans. The wholesale slaughter of troops at this point is frightful. Shell fire, rifle fire, mine, counter mine, charge, attack, and the heaviest of gun duels are features of the great battle there.

Hilles Predicts Republican Platform Will Be Brief

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 28.—Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the republican national committee today expressed the opinion that the platform which will be adopted by the national convention next month will be unusually brief and will deal only with the most vital public questions. From information obtained in talking with party leaders on the subject he believes the principal planks in the platform will include the following:

A statement on Americanism.

A statement on preparedness for adequate military and naval defense.

A declaration in favor of a protective tariff to be prepared by a non-partisan tariff commission created by congress with special attention to the needs of the industries of this country after the close of the European war.

A declaration in favor of a merchant marine.

A statement dealing with the alleged shortcomings of the democratic national administration.

The National Congressional union is the first organization to make formal application to appear before the resolutions committee of the convention. It will urge the republicans to insert a plank in favor of a suffrage amendment, and Chairman Hilles has promised the women a hearing.

In speaking of the probable action of the progressive national convention to be held in Chicago simultaneously with the republican national convention, Chairman Hilles said:

"I imagine everybody assumes that the progressives will nominate Roosevelt for president. If the republican convention adopts a straightforward, sincere, ringing declaration on the vital public questions now being discussed and nominates a man clearly equal to the important tasks which will confront the next president, Roosevelt might not think there would be any need of this entering the field. But if the republicans nominate a man who Mr. Roosevelt thinks is a misfortune and adopts a platform which he regards as 'bunk' he may feel so outraged as to run and perhaps help elect President Wilson."

Chairman Hilles denied a report that the organization had ever thought of an attempt to force the nomination of a candidate for president the first day of the convention. Not until the third day, June 3, will the nominating speeches be reached, he said.

TAMPICO AMERICANS SAY CONDITIONS ARE INTOLERABLE NOW

ON EVE OF RECEIPT OF CARRANZA'S LATEST NOTE COMES PROTEST THAT MEXICAN OFFICIALS ARE ENFORCING CONFISCATORY ORDERS AND DECREES.

OIL OPERATOR PUT IN JAIL

De Facto Government Expected to Ask Withdrawal of Troops and Object to Embargo on Exportation of Munition Across Border—Pershing and Gaviro to Meet Wednesday or Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, May 28.—On the eve of the receipt of General Carranza's new note, which officials believe will renew the demand for withdrawal of American troops from Mexico, and with another conference between American and Mexican military commanders about to begin, a protest was received at the white house reporting serious difficulties between American oil operators at Tampico and the Mexican authorities.

The protest came in the form of a telegram addressed to President Wilson by eighty-four American citizens residing at Tampico, who had held a mass meeting and determined to lay their case before the government. They declared the Mexican military officials were promulgating decrees designed to make it impossible for Americans to do business in the country and told how one of their number had been arrested and imprisoned for three hours because he refused to pay his employees' wages fixed by the authorities in excess of terms previously agreed upon with the men.

The signers of the message asserted their right to protection from the American government and announced their determination not to comply with arbitrary and confiscatory orders and decrees by the Mexicans.

DECREES GETTING MORE ANTI-AMERICAN.

White house officials sent the protest to the state department for investigation. Other complaints already have been received regarding recent decrees by the Carranza government and it is probable that there will be representations on the subject just as soon as the controversy over the presence of American troops in Mexico is adjusted.

"It has become practically impossible for an American to do business of any nature in this section of the country," the Tampico protest said, "because of restrictions placed by the authorities which we believe to be directed primarily against American citizens. For a year a series of decrees have made their appearance, which have been progressive in that they are consistently becoming more anti-American. We believe that the authorities had not the remotest idea when they first began to issue such decrees that they would be so enforced."

The protest said that when nothing was done by our government to secure their repeal that the edicts have been made more stringent each day until now our property is threatened with confiscation.

Exodus From Washington For Conventions to Begin

By the Associated Press.

Washington, May 28.—The pre-convention exodus of members of congress already has begun, many members of the house and nearly a score of senators having left Washington Saturday and today for preliminary business pertaining to the republican convention which will be held in Chicago next week. Democratic leaders will begin to disappear later in the week on political missions connected with the St. Louis convention, which is to follow.

Important legislation that will require the attendance of members during the week is the $241,000,000 naval appropriation bill in the house and the long-fought rivers and harbors appropriation bill in the senate. The house will reach a vote Friday. In the senate decisive action is expected by Thursday or Friday. Tomorrow the senate will vote on a motion by Senator Husting to recommit the bill with instructions for the current fiscal year will be a blanket appropriation of $20,000,000 to carry on existing projects.

While senators who have persistently fought the bill have made many converts, they were doubtful tonight that they could muster enough votes to send the bill back to the committee.

Another important event of the week will be the vote Thursday on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court of the United States. Opposition leaders have conceded that the nomination will be confirmed.

Tomorrow the senate committee on postoffices and post roads will meet in executive session to consider the case of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General James A. Blakeslee, who charged in a letter to postmasters that members of the committee had surrendered to the railroads in their disposition of the postoffice appropriation bill. Mr. Blakeslee said the committee had an exciting word war over the matter yesterday. The committee may decide to call Postmaster General Burleson before it or lay the case directly before the president.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, May 28.—Half a billion dollars will be the government's internal revenue tax roll for the fiscal year ending June 30 next, according to a statement issued today by Secretary McAdoo. This sum, which Secretary McAdoo says exceeds by many millions all previous estimates, will be made up substantially as follows:

Taxes on whiskey, beer, cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, $302,000,000.

Taxes on the incomes of individuals and corporations, $115,000,000.

Emergency tax collections, $82,000,000.

The volume of money pouring into the treasury has steadily increased, month by month since last fall, until now it is greater than any time since the effects of the war began to be felt.

Consumption of whiskey, cigars and cigarettes and tobacco has increased, according to revenue, while the consumption of beer has increased in the last year. For the first ten months of the fiscal year, receipts of taxes on cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, increased $5,605,121 over the corresponding period a year ago, due, in large part, the effective enforcement of the internal revenue laws.

The statement continues: "Notwithstanding the spread of prohibition, collections on distilled spirits for the first ten months of the current fiscal year increased $10,013,146 over the corresponding period of a year ago. This is due in great measure to the effective enforcement of the internal revenue laws on distilled spirits. It is estimated that through the campaign of the treasury department against bootlegging, equalizing and blockading in distilleries, the revenue in the government has been increased by probably $5,000,000 annually.

"It is estimated that expenditures for the internal revenue appropriation for the current fiscal year will amount to $7,200,000 and even if the collections amount to only $495,000,000 the cost of collection will be 1.45 per cent, the lowest in the history of the internal revenue service.

Chicago, May 28.—Work of preparing the Chicago coliseum for the republican convention June 7 has been completed.

It cost Chicago about $95,000 to provide the republican party with a suitable meeting place for its 1916 national convention.

The building contains 12,027 seats, with nearly 700 seats and desks for the use of newspaper men.

Paris, May 28.—(5:50 p. m.)—"The torpedoing of the Italian steamship Moravia, which was sunk by a German submarine in the Mediterranean, constitutes a formal contravention of the German note to the American government of May 4," says the Temps.

"Germany, however," the newspaper adds, "will not fail to seek to justify her act."

THOMAS B. LOVE SAYS HAS EVIDENCE TO PROVE ELECTION

MAJORITY OF TWENTY CLAIMED

Work of Collecting Affidavits to Be Continued Until Correct List Is Obtained Is Intimation in Statement Given to Public from Headquarters in Dallas.

Special to the Morning News.

Dallas, Texas, May 28.—Hon. Thomas B. Love of Dallas issued a statement tonight, in which he claims that, from the corrected vote of the San Antonio convention, as announced by Secretary Kirk through the Houston Chronicle, he was elected democratic national committeeman for Texas by approximately twenty votes.

A list of counties are given, which Kirk's report shows voted for Judge Poindexter and which Mr. Love claims he has the evidence to prove, cast their votes for him (Love) instead. On the last night of the San Antonio convention, Mr. Love issued a statement that he had, in reality, been elected, and he declares that he has now collected enough evidence to substantiate this claim.

That still other votes, which were cast for him, were counted for Judge Poindexter, is Mr. Love's belief, according to his statement, and he says that he intends to keep on collecting evidence until he is satisfied that he has established, beyond a doubt, what the vote really was.

SEVERAL MEXICAN BANDIT LEADERS REPORTED TAKEN

By the Associated Press.

Chihuahua City, Mex., May 28.—Several bandit leaders, including Juan J. Castro, a former Villista colonel, and Colonel Chavez, who have operated largely in Durango, have been captured and imprisoned in Torreon, according to reports today to Gen. Jacinto Trevino, military commander of Northern Mexico. Dispatches from Gen. Samuel de Los Santos asked for orders as to their disposition.

The prisoners, whom some American newspapers recently reported to be revolting Carrancista officers, were members of the Canuto Reyes faction and were granted amnesty in Torreon a short time ago. After leaving Torreon they went directly to the Hacienda Hormiguero and attempted to force its owner, Carlos Gonzalez Jr., one of the wealthiest men in the Laguna district, to give them 10,000 pesos. Their capture followed.

An engagement with the Jose Chavez band of Villistas, near El Espejo, was reported today from Santa Rosalia by Col. Marcel Lopez. He said he had captured a captain and important papers which incriminated Villista sympathizers in the district, as a result of which a number of persons have been arrested. Chavez himself escaped with ten mounted men, the remainder of his command fleeing toward the hills afoot, according to the dispatches.

Colonel Lopez also reported dispatching a column to Rio Florido to cooperate with the command of Gen. Ignacio Ramon in rounding up a small band of Villistas, including Villa's former chief of staff, Nicholas Hernandez, which is in hiding in that vicinity.

He also has thrown out scouts along the road to Ojinaga to co-operate with the column moving south from that point, he said.

Last Troops Back From Pursuit of Glenn Springs Raiders

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, May 28.—Two troops of the Eighth cavalry, commanded by Major George T. Langhorne, returned to their station at Fort Bliss here today, after pursuing into Mexican the bandits who raided Glenn Springs, Texas, several weeks ago. Military men here said the arrival of the troops marks the close of that complication in the Mexican situation.

Paris, May 28.—Greece's protests against the military operations undertaken by the central powers and Bulgaria in Greek Macedonia was forwarded last night to Greek ministers at Berlin, Vienna and Sofia.

The Bulgarians entered Greek territory unopposed. This has caused violent comment in the press and considerable agitation among the populace. The belief is general here that the Greek government will confine its action to a protest.

Two weeks ago an arrangement was made whereby the entente powers decided to transport the Serbians to Saloniki by sea.

Hilles Predicts Republican Platform Will Be Brief

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 28.—Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the republican national committee today expressed the opinion that the platform which will be adopted by the national convention next month will be unusually brief and will deal only with the most vital political questions. From information obtained in talking with party leaders on the subject he believes the principal planks in the platform will include the following:

A statement on Americanism. A statement on preparedness for adequate military and naval defense.

A declaration in favor of a protective tariff to be prepared by a non-partisan tariff commission created by congress with special attention to the needs of the industries of this country after the close of the European war.

A declaration in favor of a merchant marine.

A statement dealing with the alleged shortcomings of the democratic national administration.

The National Congressional union is the first organization to make formal application to appear before the resolutions committee of the convention. It will urge the republicans to insert a plank in favor of a suffrage amendment, and Chairman Hilles has promised the women a hearing.

In speaking of the probable action of the progressive national convention to be held in Chicago simultaneously with the republican national convention, Chairman Hilles said:

"I imagine everybody assumes that the progressives will nominate Roosevelt for president. If the republican convention adopts a straightforward, sincere, ringing declaration on the vital public questions now being discussed and nominates a man clearly equal to the important tasks which will confront the next president, Roosevelt might not think there would be any need of this entering the field. But if the republicans nominate a man who Mr. Roosevelt thinks is a misfortune and adopts a platform which he regards as 'bunk' he may feel so outraged as to run and perhaps help elect President Wilson."

Chairman Hilles denied a report that the organization had ever thought of an attempt to force the nomination of a candidate for president the first day of the convention. Not until the third day of the convention, he said, will the nominating speeches be reached, he said.

Villista Cache Unearthed by Mexicans at Namiquipa

By the Associated Press.

Field Headquarters Near Namiquipa, May 28, Via Wireless to Columbus, N. M.—A Villista cache of machine guns, rifles and ammunition was unearthed today in a canyon near here by townspeople of Namiquipa working under American direction. The find, which was officially reported to Gen. J. J. Pershing, extraordinary commander, is regarded as important, but merely because of the quantity of armament discovered but it reveals a change in the spirit manifested toward the American troops by the natives of this section.

Since the beginning of the expedition many rumors have been current that Villa had numerous stores of arms and ammunition cached in Chihuahua, but the store yesterday is the first to be uncovered by the Americans.

The finding of the cache is attributed already to the recent killing of Candelario Cervantes, the notorious Villista lieutenant. It being pointed out that friendly Mexicans now feel free to disclose secretly, which before the death of Cervantes they have kept under threats of death. This feeling of security on the part of the natives is being augmented by the successful pursuit of Cervantes' band is being pushed. The country southwest of Las Cruces is being swept thoroughly by the American detachments.

Club Women Hear Suffragists Tell of Benefits of Vote

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 28.—The Woman's club has doomed the "society leader" in this country, according to the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, this city, who spoke here today at a vespers service attended by more than 200 delegates and alternates to the thirteenth biennial convocation of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"In the face of your great organization," Dr. Grant said, "I see no place left in American life for the 'society leader' or the woman of only social influence. Your leadership is of the brain and the heart, united for humane and patriotic purposes.

"Women are expected to rid the country of the alcohol habit, to secure a superior system of education, to rear and help the young, to divest politics of graft, and to raise the tone of rural life. Why is woman expected to do so much?"

"Because most men are slaves of conservatism, another name for weakness. Youth works for age and must do its bidding and so the enfeebled perpetuates its sway."

Thousands of delegates and visitors crowded Carnegie Hall tonight to hear women from twelve enfranchised states tell of the benefits the vote had brought them. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt presided.

Southern Mayors to Attend Defense Conference

By the Associated Press.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—Mayors of virtually all the larger cities of the south have accepted invitations to attend the conference on national defense to be held here next Friday, according to an announcement tonight by the local committee on arrangements. Henry Ford May Go Back to Europe on Peace Mission

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Henry Ford may return to Europe to renew his efforts to bring about peace among the warring nations. This possibility was made public tonight by Theodore De Lavigne, who is in close touch with Mr. Ford. He said Mr. Ford may sail for Stockholm about June 15. Gaston Plantiff, who was left in charge of the peace party when Mr. Ford was taken ill last winter, has been here for some time. It was said he will sail for Europe June 1.

Exodus From Washington For Conventions to Begin

By the Associated Press.

Washington, May 28.—The pre-convention exodus of members of congress already has begun, many members of the house and nearly a score of senators having left Washington Saturday and today for preliminary business pertaining to the republican convention which will be held in Chicago next week. Democratic leaders will begin to disappear later in the week on political missions connected with the St. Louis convention, which is to follow.

Important legislation that will require the attendance of members during the week is the $241,000,000 naval appropriation bill in the house and the long-fought rivers and harbors appropriation bill in the senate. The house will reach a vote Friday. In the senate decisive action is expected by Thursday or Friday. Tomorrow the senate will vote on a motion by Senator Husting to recommit the bill with instructions that it be reported in the form of a blanket appropriation of $20,000,000 to carry on existing projects. While senators who have persistently fought the bill have made many converts, they were doubtful tonight that they could muster enough votes to send the bill back to the committee.

Another important event of the week will be the vote Thursday on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court of the United States. Opposition leaders have conceded that the nomination will be confirmed.

Tomorrow the senate committee on postoffices and post roads will meet in executive session to consider the case of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General James A. Blakeslee, who charged in a letter to postmasters that members of the committee had surrendered to the railroads in their disposition of the postoffice appropriation bill. Mr. Blakeslee and the committee had an exciting word war over the matter yesterday. Their committee may decide to call Postmaster General Burleson before it or lay the case directly before the president.

Internal Revenue for Year To Be Half Billion Dollars

By the Associated Press.

Washington, May 28.—Half a billion dollars will be the government's internal revenue tax roll for the fiscal year ending June 30 next, according to a statement issued today by Secretary McAdoo. This sum, which Secretary McAdoo says exceeds by many millions all previous estimates, will be made up substantially as follows:

Taxes on whiskey, beer, cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, $303,000,000. Taxes on the incomes of individuals and corporations, $115,000,000. Emergency tax collections, $32,000,000.

The volume of money pouring into the treasury has steadily increased, month by month since last fall, until now it is greater than any time since the effects of the war began to be felt. Consumption of whiskey, cigars and cigarettes and tobacco has increased, according to revenue, while the consumption of beer has increased in the last year. For the first ten months of the fiscal year, receipts of taxes on cigars, cigarettes and tobacco increased $5,505,121 over the corresponding period a year ago, due, in large part, the statement says, to the great improvement in business conditions. The statement continues:

"Notwithstanding the spread of prohibition, collections on distilled spirits for the first ten months of the current fiscal year increased $10,913,140 over the corresponding period of a year ago. This is due in great measure to the effective enforcement of the internal revenue taxes on distilled spirits. It is estimated that through the campaign underscoring, equalizing and blockading in distilleries, the revenue of the government has been increased by $5,900,000 annually.

"It is estimated that expenditures from the internal revenue appropriation for the current fiscal year will amount to $7,200,000 and even if the collections amount to only $495,000,000 the cost of collection will be 1.45 per cent, the lowest in the history of the internal revenue service.

Cost Chicago Big Sum for G. O. P. Meet

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 28.—Work of preparing the Chicago coliseum for the republican convention June 7 has been completed. It cost Chicago about $95,000 to provide the republican party with a suitable meeting place for its 1916 national convention.

"The building contains 12,027 seats, with nearly 700 seats and desks for the use of newspaper men."

THOMAS B. LOVE SAYS HAS EVIDENCE TO PROVE ELECTION

TAKING THE OFFICIAL VOTE ANNOUNCED BY CONVENTION SECRETARY AS BASIS, DALLAS MAN POINTS OUT COUNTIES GIVEN IN POINDEXTER COLUMN THAT WERE FOR HIM.

MAJORITY OF TWENTY CLAIMED

Work of Collecting Affidavits to Be Continued Until Correct List Is Obtained Is Intimation in Statement Given to Public from Headquarters in Dallas.

Special to the Morning News.

Dallas, Texas, May 28.—Hon. Thomas B. Love of Dallas issued a statement tonight, in which he claims that, from the corrected vote of the San Antonio convention, as announced by Secretary Kirk through the Houston Chronicle, he was elected democratic national committeeman for Texas by approximately twenty votes.

A list of counties are given, which Kirk's report shows voted for Judge Poindexter and which Mr. Love claims he has the evidence to prove, cast their votes for him (Love) instead. On the last night of the San Antonio convention, Mr. Love issued a statement that he had, in reality, been elected, and he declares that he has now collected enough evidence to substantiate this claim.

That still other votes, which were cast for him, were counted for Judge Poindexter, is Mr. Love's belief, according to his statement, and he says that he intends to keep on collecting evidence until he is satisfied that he has established, beyond a doubt, what the vote really was.

SEVERAL MEXICAN BANDIT LEADERS REPORTED TAKEN

By the Associated Press.

Chihuahua City, Mex., May 28.—Several bandit leaders, including Juan J. Castro, a former Villista colonel, and Colonel Chavez, who have operated largely in Durango, have been captured and imprisoned in Torreon, according to reports today to Gen. Jacinto Trevino, military commander of Northern Mexico. Dispatches from Gen. Samuel de los Santos asked for orders as to their disposition.

The prisoners, whom some American newspapers recently reported to be revolting Carrancista officers, were members of the Canuto Reyes faction and were granted amnesty in Torreon a short time ago. After leaving Torreon they went directly to the Hacienda Hormiguero and attempted to force its owner, Carlos Gonzalez Jr., one of the wealthiest men in the Laguna district, to give them 10,000 pesos. Their capture followed.

An engagement with the Jose Chavez band of Villistas, near El Espejo, was reported today from Santa Rosalia by Col. Marcel Lopez. He said he had captured a captain and important papers which incriminated Villista sympathizers in the district, as a result of which a number of persons have been arrested. Chavez himself escaped with ten mounted men, the remainder of his command fleeing toward the hills afoot, according to the dispatches.

Colonel Lopez also reported dispatching a column to Rio Florida to co-operate with the command of Gen. Ignacio Ramon in rounding up a small band of Villistas, including Villa's former chief of staff, Nicholas Hernandez, which is in hiding in that vicinity. He also has thrown out scouts along the road to Ojinaga to co-operate with the column moving south from that point, he said.

Last Troops Back From Pursuit of Glenn Springs Raiders

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, May 28.—Two troops of the Eighth cavalry, commanded by Major George T. Langhorne, returned to their station at Fort Bliss here today, after pursuing into Mexico the bandits who raided Glenn Springs, Texas, several weeks ago. Military men here said the arrival of the troops marks the close of that complication in the Mexican situation.

CERVANTES BURIED WITH NO CEREMONY

By the Associated Press.

Field Headquarters Near Namiquipa, Mex., May 28, Via Wireless to Columbus, N. M.—Candelario Cervantes and Juan Bencomo were buried today without religious ceremony. There were no flowers, no words spoken over the graves of the two bandits, who had caused the expeditionary command almost as much trouble as has Villa himself. Even the village Padre at Namiquipa, where Cervantes had grown to manhood, declined to officiate at the services.

Two dusty two-wheeled carts, drawn by duster mules, bore the coffins through the huddled adobe jacals of the town to a little cemetery on the outskirts. A few Mexicans, clad in dirty clothes, one of them Cervantes' father, a toothless old woman and a few dogs comprised the funeral party.

No trace of the fleeing members of the civil authorities of Namiquipa, the majority of the old citizens having insisted that the body of Cervantes, brought here after he was killed in an attack upon an American army engineering party last Thursday, be gotten out of town.

The bodies of the fleeing members of the Cervantes band had been obtained by the troops of cavalry sent out in pursuit, according to reports here today.

American troops have been ordered by General Pershing to avoid Namiquipa unless there are signs of an outbreak. More or less drinking is going on there.

SUBMARINE BASES ON AFRICAN COAST RECALL OLD HISTORY

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, May 28.—The reported successful raid of an Italian fleet on the secret submarine bases established by Austria on the northern coast of Africa, just west of Egypt, brings to the attention of the world an almost forgotten province which was once dotted with cities of culture and wealth. Concerning this region, known in ancient times as Cyrenaica and corresponding very closely to the modern province of Barca, between Tripoli and Egypt, the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington has issued the following bulletin:

"Cyrenaica, whose dangerous coast line, devoid of good harbors, is said to have furnished excellent places of concealment for stores of food and fuel needed by Austrian submarines operating in the southeastern end of the Mediterranean, was once the seat of one of the most prosperous Greek colonies of the south. Today this territory, with an area equal to that of Scotland, supports a population of only 250,000, many of whom are nomads.

Cyrene, capital of the ancient province, is reputed to have been settled by Battus, who, seeking to avoid political strife in the island of Thera, brought a few colonists to the African shore. He chose the site in accordance with a suggestion from the oracle of Delphi, which commended a place between waters. The four springs, which furnished an abundance of pure water, prominence ten miles from the seashore, was construed to fit this description, after an earlier choice of a barren island had proved unhappy.

"The town took its name from that of a wood nymph who is supposed to have lived in the vicinity, on the slopes of verdant hills where today numerous herds of nomads find unsurpassed pasturage.

"For more than 500 years after its settlement in 631 B. C., Cyrene flourished, but gradually its commerce began to wane under the sway of Ptolemy, monarch of its trade being diverted to Alexandria and Carthage. Finally the whole province was bequeathed to Rome by Ptolemy Apion in 96 B. C., and it remained a province of that empire until the Arab invasion of the seventh century.

"As early as the fourth century, however, historians employed the phrase 'deserted towns' in writing of Cyrene and others of the five cities which originally gave the name of Pentapolis to the region.

"On these well wooded, amply watered shores of the Mediterranean there was cultivated a variety of bar fruits and flowers still grow here in great luxuriance, almost on the fringe of the Libyan Desert. One of the most famous products of Greek Cyrenaica was the alfalfa plant, whose reputed marvelous medicinal properties made it a most valuable article of export. No plant grown in this part of the world today has properties of a nature so remarkable as to identify it as alfalfa. Its cultivation, therefore, may be regarded as one of the 'lost arts.'

"Among Cyrene's native sons whose names add lustre to the history of the ancient city are Callimachus, the poet, and Aristippus, a pupil of Socrates, who founded the Greek school of philosophy known as Cyrenaic. The Cyrenaic school, a forerunner of Epicureanism, held that pleasure is the highest good and that virtue is that course of conduct which is productive of the greatest enjoyment.

"Owing to the anti-Christian activities of the powerful and populous Senussi sect of Arabs, exploration of the ruins of Cyrene and her neighbor cities has not been pursued with great thoroughness. In fact, Turkish officials have, as far as possible, curtailed travel of Europeans in this section of the Ottoman domain. About twelve years ago the site of the ancient capital was visited by a venturesome party of Englishmen who made a hurried excursion, spending a single night amid the dust heaps of departed grandeur, where the only structures that defy the ravages of time are the great tiers of rock tombs. Playing about the left lonic and Doric columns which marked the impressive entrance to these last abodes of the sepulchred great, the visitors found the children of fifty squalid nomad families, sole inheritors of a city of 100,000 inhabitants."

Tsinanfu Used to Being Poised on Brink of Calamity

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, May 28.—Tsinanfu, one of the chief centers of disturbance during the revolutionary outbreaks now occurring in China, is the subject of the following bulletin of the national geographic society, issued from its Washington headquarters:

"The disorders which are making a political maelstrom of Tsinanfu (also spelled Shantung), the capital of the province of Shantung, China, gives space in the news of the day to a city of 100,000 inhabitants which has been poised on the brink of calamity for a decade. It is in this vicinity that the relentless Hoangho (Yellow river) each season threatens destructive debauches which may eventually parallel the catastrophic catastrophe of 1887 when it broke through its banks at Kiangsu, flooding an area as large as the state of New York and entailing the loss of more than a million lives.

"Tsinanfu, with its triple walls, lies four miles to the south of the Hoangho, whose river bed year by year is elevated above the contiguous plains, while the natives continue to build up the imprisoning levees, thus deferring as long as possible the fateful day when the pressure of the flood stream breaks through the banks and the tawny waters claim their thousands of victims as they make a new channel to the sea.

"The Hoangho is one of the great water courses of Asia, but it very appropriately bears the name of 'China's sorrow,' for although it is almost as long as our own Mississippi and drains a basin of nearly 400,000 square miles, it is practically useless as a commerce carrier in winter and its current too torrential in summer. It brings down from the empire's central plains vast deposits of yellow silt, which cause the bed of the stream gradually to rise. The natives endeavor to check the waters as they begin to spread out from the elevated channel, and slowly the river is raised high above the surrounding plains. When the break occurs the waters often find their way into the city, and begin again their 'piling up' process. The extent of the changes in the course of this erratic river during its spread out from the elevated channel, and the fact that some of its mouths are 500 miles apart.

"It has been computed that within the next 25,000 years the Hoangho and the other important rivers of North China, the Yangtze and the Peiho, will bring down enough silt to fill the Yellow Sea, and the Gulf of Choo-choo thus connecting Manchuria and Korea with Shantung, and giving rise to political complications which need hardly disturb the most far-sighted statesmen of the present generation.

"Tsinanfu was at one time an important silk market and imitation jewelry city, and was also made and sold extensively, the glass coming from Po-shanien, chief city of the 'black country' of Shantung, where it has been manufactured since the sixth century B. C.

"The capital enjoys the advantage of being connected by railroad with Kiaochow, 250 miles, and with the north. Peking is 245 miles to the north-west.

"One of the widely appreciated natural phenomena of this section is the spring of warm water, near the west gate of the city. It is supposed to have great healing powers."

Hail Storm Sweeps Over Oklahoma

By the Associated Press.

Enid, Okla., May 28.—Garfield county, in northern Oklahoma, was storm swept today, heavy falls of hail accompanying the blow. Fairmount and Douglas, in the southeastern section of the county, suffered most from the storm, according to meagre reports, seven buildings being wrecked and the roof of the auditorium being torn off. The large size of the hail stones was reported to have caused much suffering among unsheltered livestock.

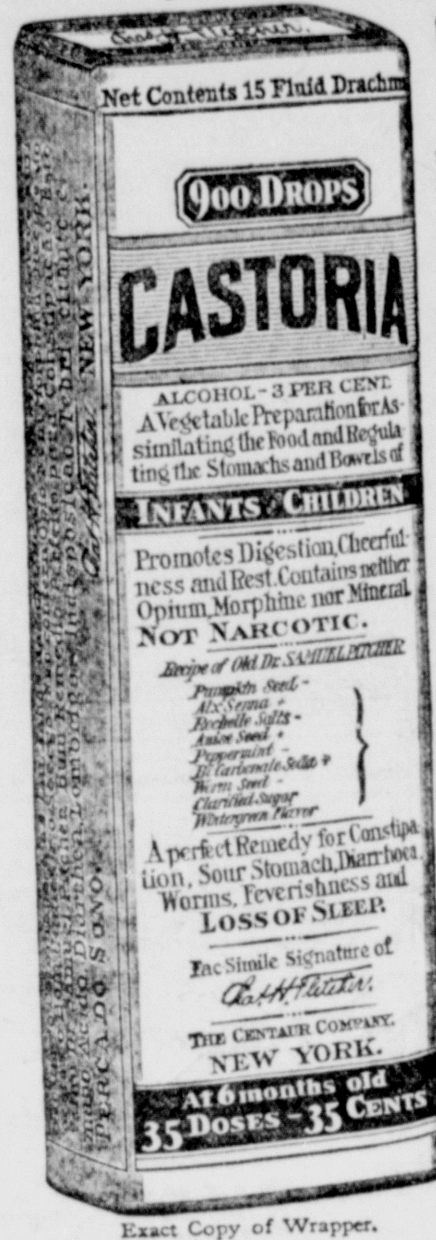

The store in Enid injured slightly two persons. Many buildings here suffered from the froaks of the wind, the roof of the auditorium being torn off. The large size of the hail stones was reported to have caused much suffering among unsheltered livestock.

tion and in some cases actually have been confiscated and our personal liberty is menaced.

FORSID FOREIGNERS FROM HOLDING LAND.

"A military decree was issued some months ago providing that lands might not be leased in the state of Vera Cruz for oil purposes without the consent of the state government and this decree has been modified until now no foreigner is permitted to acquire leases, real estate or assignments of leases from a native. In this state an American may not acquire real estate nor may he be permitted to lease a house or apartment for over one year without a special permit. The military government of the state has instructed the stamp office not to issue certificates of transfer where an American sells to another and the governor refuses to certify to the signature of the notary to any contract or other instrument in which an American appears. The effect of this procedure is to prevent Americans from transferring their property to other foreigners.

"A decree was issued a few days ago by the local military authorities providing that labor should be paid and merchandise should be sold on a basis of Mexican gold, the consideration to be paid in Mexican paper money at an arbitrary value fixed by the government regardless of the commercial value of this paper money as regulated by supply and demand.

"All of the above decrees violate Mexican laws and are in violation of the rights of Americans guaranteed by treaty between Mexico and the United States. We desire to know if the American government will permit the above decrees to remain in force where the rights of Americans are involved? An understanding with the authorities as to the future would not be sufficient; the decrees already in existence must be repealed where they affect Americans."

MEXICO MAY OBJECT TO EMBARGO.

In addition to again raising the question of withdrawal of American troops, it is thought in official circles that the new note may mention as another grievance the official embargo upon exportation of munitions to Mexico from the United States.

While diplomatic negotiations are in progress here, General Pershing will be holding conferences with General Gaviro, Carranza commander of the state of Chihuahua, regarding co-operation of the Carranza and American forces in the pursuit of outlaws. General Pershing's advice to the war department today stated that General Gaviro was expected at Casas Grandes on Wednesday or Thursday.

General Funston has prohibited discussion by General Pershing of the question of withdrawing the United States expedition.

The state department today received a message stating that several Americans from the Guadalupe mining district had gone to Manzanillo to await a steamship for California. About 100 Americans left Manzanillo and Mazatlan a few weeks ago.

Salazar Returns to Civil Life

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, May 28.—Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar and the three privates who followed him to the end of his harmless revolution, appeared before General Gaviro in the Juarez headquarters today and obtained safe conduct passes to allow them to return to their homes and civil life.

Following their surrender two days ago, they have lived as private citizens and kept out of politics. Salazar is returning to the central part of the republic under the eyes of the authorities and will settle at any place where he can find a job.

There was nothing to indicate Salazar's rank above his followers, except his superior physique and more intelligent and expressive faith. Their clothes were equally worn and tattered. The privates, who were of the poor labor type of unmixed Indian blood, wore overalls and jumpers.

Before Salazar crossed the line a few weeks after the Columbus raid, he left behind him at El Paso a manifesto declaring in bombastic language his intention of starting another revolution in Mexico. Three men met him, according to arrangement, on the southern side of the border. But his old followers in the days when he held commanding rank in the Madero and Huerta armies either failed or declined to join him.

In a talk with General Gaviro, Salazar said he left the United States because he feared arrest there. He affirmed that he had committed no outrages against property or persons in Mexico and had made no effort to recruit his forces. In surrendering, he said, he accomplished his sole desire, which was a guarantee of citizenship under the Carranza government.

When Salazar and his men gave themselves up they were reported to have run out of supplies and to have been suffering from hunger.

Humor of 1857.
Humor is not lacking in the first number of Harper's Weekly. There is a column headed "Things Wise and Otherwise," corresponding somewhat to our "Remarkable Remarks." I quote two, leaving it to the reader to decide whether they are wise or otherwise. The first is a conundrum:

"What did Adam and Eve do when they were turned out of Paradise? They raised Cain!"

The second is a supposititious advertisement:

"A young gentleman on the point of getting married is desirous of meeting a man of experience who will dissuade him from such a step."

Harper's Weekly in later years was distinguished by its numerous illustrations, but in this first number there are only two small wood cuts, apparently imported, with the attached jokes:

"Lady of the House—We are sadly short of gentlemen, Captain Fitz-drawle. Pray, let me introduce you for the next Galop."

"Able-Bodied Swell—Aw, tha-a-anks, no—aw—fact is—aw—I've given up gymnastics—they—aw—disawance one's dress so!"

"Police Constable (to boy playing hoop)—Now, then, off with that hoop, or I'll precious soon help you!"

"Lady (who imagines the observation is addressed to her)—What a non-sens!"

If fashions continue in the direction they are now tending perhaps we can use these old jokes again, as well as the news items.—New York Independent.

Harper's Weekly in later years was distinguished by its numerous illustrations, but in this first number there are only two small wood cuts, apparently imported, with the attached jokes:

"Lady of the House—We are sadly short of gentlemen, Captain Fitz-drawle. Pray, let me introduce you for the next Galop."

"Able-Bodied Swell—Aw, tha-a-anks, no—aw—fact is—aw—I've given up gymnastics—they—aw—disawance one's dress so!"

"Police Constable (to boy playing hoop)—Now, then, off with that hoop, or I'll precious soon help you!"

"Lady (who imagines the observation is addressed to her)—What a non-sens!"

If fashions continue in the direction they are now tending perhaps we can use these old jokes again, as well as the news items.—New York Independent.

Cool—no mosquitos. Grove Park Inn Sunset Mountain, Asheville, N. C. —the finest Resort Hotel in the World. It is absolutely fireproof and open all the year.

The 120-acre, 18-hole, golf course is the finest in the South—it is a blue grass course. All the water used at the Inn comes from the slopes of Mount Mitchell, the highest mountain east of the Rockies, nearly seven thousand feet altitude. The milk and cream come from Biltmore Dairy on the estate of the late Geo. W. Vanderbilt.

It is the cleanest, most sanitary hotel ever built. Every floor is tile. Every bedroom has Mosaic tile covered with French rugs made at Aubusson, France. The foods are the finest money can buy. The kitchen is spotless white tile to the roof and pure white Mosaic tile floors. The buildings are built of great mountain boulders—some of the walls are five feet thick.

We are three and a half miles from the railroad. The street cars are not allowed to come near enough to be heard. We burn coke—not soft coal. Automobiles not allowed near the building during the night. Thus we have no smoke, no dust, no train noise. We have pure air, common-sense, digestible food, quiet in the bedrooms at night, the finest Orchestra outside of New York and Boston, a great organ, and an atmosphere where refined people and busy business men with their families find great comfort and a good time.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

Waco is having a pretty large number of summer colds as they might be called, and residents are suffering therefrom. Getting too warm and then riding out into the cooler night air gave rise to many of them, according to the persons who have them.

Waco has been fortunate as to fires recently. In fact this city has much better luck all the time than most of her Texas sisters, thanks being due in large part to the excellent fire department here, which is recognized as one of the best to be found anywhere.

Waco had a chapter of horrors last week and the week before. The hope is, however, that this may not be repeated the present week. It has long been held by newspaper men, though, that suicides, homicides and things of that character run in groups, there evidently being some psychological reason for this.

The formal opening Tuesday night next of the Y. W. C. A. is something which is claiming much attention just now. The institution secured a rapid rise in Waco, probably because of its need, and the prediction is that if weather conditions are favorable there will be an attendance which will tax the building.

That this has been an unusually favorable season for trees is the statement made by local parties who have put out a great many of the shade producers. The rains came just right for them, the sunshine was mixed in the right proportion, and in every way the conditions have been almost ideal, resulting in good growth and a healthy condition of the trees which were put out during the winter and early spring.

Tomorrow night is the big night with the Macabees, and the vote is then to be taken on the proposition to hold a state convention to consider the establishment in Texas of a Great Camp for the order. Texas has a membership large enough to secure the Great Camp and also has other requisites.

Waco Pastors Will Take a Stand Denouncing Lynching

It was stated last night by several prominent pastors of Waco that in all probability strong resolutions condemning the recent lynching in this city would be passed at the next meeting of the Waco Pastors' association.

Due to a number of Baptist pastors being out of the city for the Asheville convention and absence of leaders in other denominations, a meeting has not been held earlier. It is the contention of some of the pastors that "they cannot afford to let the affair become a part of the history of the city without a strong protest from the Christian forces."

Dr. C. T. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, renewed his fight for a disavowal from the Christian forces yesterday in a sermon, stressing the reputation for barbarity that this city has received as a result of the mob law. The First Presbyterian church was the first congregation in the city to go on record in "solemn protest against the fearful and lawless occurrence."

Dr. F. C. Culver, pastor of the Austin Avenue Methodist church, said last night that he planned to preach a sermon protesting lawlessness in this form. He thought that it would be brought up at the next meeting of the Pastors' association.

The first formal protest made by the church came from Dr. Caldwell the Sunday following the lynching, and his protest was indorsed by the vote of the congregation.

The protest follows: "The Presbyterian church has always stood for the sovereignty of God and against the unrestrained will of men. It has always had a passion for righteousness and justice, and has largely prepared the moral soil from which the laws of the land have sprung. It has always dared to have a conscience ahead of the community. It has always stood for the majesty of the law and the competency of courts, and against all forms of anarchy. God's blessings have always been promised to such as keep His commandments and to the nation and the people who honor His laws and the governments through which He operates; and when the people or community overthrow His ordained method of administering justice, His wrath and curse have been visited, since nations, governments and communities have no future existence, but are punished here and now.

"Therefore, in the name of God, in His love and in His fear, and for the sake of Christ and His church, and of righteousness and justice, I earnestly and solemnly protest against the fearful, lawless occurrence of last Monday. To be silent at such a time as this is to fall in one of the functions of the prophetic office and to become an alien to the commonwealth. Let us fervently implore God to stay His vengeance and that such a time as this be a time when the community after the sins of the few, and let us repose our loyal confidence in the competence of our judicial and executive branches of government to fix and execute such swift and dire penalties as unrepentant criminals deserve. Amen."

Congregation Sees Boy Electrocutated at Little Rock

By the Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., May 28.—Kenneth McEwen, aged 11, was electrocuted thirty feet in the air on a lightning tower in view of the congregation of a local church which was holding services on the church lawn because of the heat tonight. The boy was knocking the lights on the tower against the steel frame to produce sparks. Suddenly a flash of blue flames enveloped him and he plunged downward fracturing his skull on the pavement below. He died in a hospital a few minutes later.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. E. P. Allred, was preaching a special sermon to boys. He rushed over, aided in placing the dying lad in an ambulance, and then resumed his sermon, using the accident as a warning to the boys.

Little Rock, Ark., May 28.—Fire tonight destroyed a two-story brick building occupied by a dry goods store and a motion picture theatre at Capitol avenue and Main street, the center of the city's business district. The loss is estimated at $50,000. The flames had gained great headway before they were discovered and for a time the entire block was menaced.

Prosecution May Ask Postponement of Innes Trial

By the Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., May 28.—Details of the disappearance from Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis and her sister, Beatrice Nelms, and the trail that detectives seeking the Atlanta women followed from northern Mexico to Alaska are expected to be gone into here this week in the trial of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Innes of Eugene, Oregon, charged with larceny after trust in connection with the disappearance of some $4000 the married sister was said to have possessed.

Innes acted as attorney for Mrs. Dennis when she got a divorce in Reno, Nevada, several years ago, and he and his wife were declared to have been in San Antonio when the two women disappeared. They were tried and acquitted there on charges of murder. Indictments charging larceny after trust were returned in Georgia courts and after a long legal fight Mr. and Mrs. Innes were brought here. Except to assert their innocence the couple have refused to talk about the case. Both sides have kept their plans secret but it is understood the prosecution has brought witnesses from Texas and other states. It is expected that arguments on demurrers to the indictments will take up much of the time Monday when the case is due to be called for trial.

It was reported tonight that the prosecution might seek postponement of the Innes trial on the ground that it had been unable to bring several witnesses here. It was indicated that the defense would protest against delay.

WHY ENORMOUS RUSSIAN TRADE NOW BECKONS AMERICA AS INDUSTRY'S GREAT OPPORTUNITY

MOSCOW, VIEW FROM STONE BRIDGE

KIEFF, KRESTCHATIK

AMERICAN MACHINES FOR RUSSIAN THRASHING

It is a new Russia which now turns to America as the natural supplier of the manufactured good. The empire urgently requires, today, according to Richard Martens, head of a big Russian engineering and shipping concern of Petrograd and New York in the initial issue of "Russia," a magazine.

Russia after the war is going to be a far different country from Russia before the war, or Russia during the war. Mr. Martens adds, and the trading after the war is going to be far different from the trading that existed before the war, principally owing to the fact that the common people of Russia, by tens of millions, have received an extraordinary new education.

The Russian peasants have been drawn by the war far from their home surroundings," he says, "and have had the opportunity of seeing new parts of Russia, new conditions, and new cities. They have seen trench-diggers, motor-cars, field kitchens, machinery, tools, and all sorts of appliances which are used in modern warfare. The Russian prisoners in Germany and Austria, it is understood, are utilized by those governments in building railroads, bridges and canals, and in the construction of towns. The large number of German and Austrian prisoners which are detained in concentration camps at points in Russia, or as in the case in Siberia, are allowed considerable freedom, have been eager, out of sheer need of occupation, to teach the Russian peasants the latest methods of cultivating the soil, by which the greatest results may be obtained from the vast but dormant possibilities of the Russian farm land. Hundreds of thousands of landed have had the opportunity of seeing railroads, modern shops, improvements and devices which are a part of a highly civilized community."

Pasture for Hogs.
Answering an inquiry from a North Texas farmer about pasture for hogs, C. M. Evans, livestock division, extension service, A. & M. college of Texas, writes:

I have found the following ration satisfactory for your section of the state: Beginning in the fall for winter pasture, wheat, barley and rye. For early spring, added to this bur clover planted in the fall. Following this, bermuda grass supplemented with sudan grass, follow this with sorghum cut and thrown over the fence. Follow this with cowpeas, finishing with peanuts in connection with corn in the fall.

Herring Ave. Revival Closes After Very Successful Series

Last night's services closed the revival that has been going on at the Herring Avenue Methodist church for the last two weeks. Rev. L. L. Evans has been assisting the pastor, Rev. R. F. Brown, and altogether there have been thirty-two additions to the church and about fifty conversions.

Rev. Mr. Evans began a meeting last night at Edgewood. Pastor Brown thanks the public and press for considerations shown during the two weeks and said that the church is now "thoroughly revived."

"Hairless Pig Disease" Costs Millions.
Helena, Mont.—Montana farmers lost one million pigs, valued at $2,500,000, last year through the ravages of a mysterious and relentless "hairless pig disease," according to Dr. Welch, professor of veterinary science at Montana state college, who has been investigating the disease.

The scab has become the terror of the farmers in Eastern Montana and in Western North and South Dakota. Dr. Welch arrives at the conclusion that a lack of iodine in the feed of the breeding pigs is responsible for the birth of the pigs in a hairless condition.

Early Tomatoes Dear.

Willis.—The first carload of tomatoes bought here this season broke local market records when D. O. Applegate paid $1100 for a shipment from East Texas. Applegate makes a specialty of early tomatoes. The quality of those received was good.

According to G. M. Garren, agronomist of the extension service of the A. & M. college, it does not pay farmers to sucker corn. This opinion is based on data from experiment stations and the experience of practical farmers.

Herring Ave. Revival Closes After Very Successful Series

Last night's services closed the revival that has been going on at the Herring Avenue Methodist church for the last two weeks. Rev. L. L. Evans has been assisting the pastor, Rev. R. P. Brown, and altogether there have been thirty-two additions to the church and about fifty conversions.

Rev. Mr. Evans began a meeting last night at Edgewood. Pastor Brown thanks the public and press for considerations shown during the two weeks and said that the church is now "thoroughly revived."

Dr. Block Makes New Improvement for Weather Feature

Accuracy first is the motto of Dr. I. Block, voluntary weather observer of the Morning News. Because of the possibility of a very slight variation in the recording of the speed of the wind from obstructing houses in the locality of the registrations, Dr. Block has erected a forty-five-foot pole on which to house the instrument that measures the velocity of the wind passage. Readers of The News get the daily results of Dr. Block's many and expensive weather and atmospheric instruments, which are being constantly improved as science makes progress in this line.

Local Deaths

J. F. Barron, aged 42 years, died at his residence, 1234 Spright street, yesterday. Mr. Barron had for the last several years been in bad health.

He is survived by the widow and eight children, Mrs. B. H. Warren of Goodnight, Mrs. J. J. McEland of Greenville, O. J. Barron of Athens, Mrs. O. B. Mosley of Farmersville, John H. Barron, Leon R. Barron, Ganes J. Barron and Miss Estelle Barron of this city.

He had been a member of the Baptist church since boyhood and at the time of his death was a member of the Seventh and James Street church. He was also a member of the Woodmen of the World, Rev. Walter H. Melton will officiate at the funeral services which will be held from the home at 10 o'clock this morning.

The pall bearers are the following: Prof. W. H. Pool, Dr. J. H. Witt, W. Bozeman, N. Pruitt, S. Watson and C. E. Poe.

Interment will be at Oakwood.

"Hairless Pig Disease" Costs Millions.

Helena, Mont.—Montana farmers lost one million pigs, valued at $2,500,000, last year through the ravages of the mysterious and relentless "hairless pig disease," according to Dr. Welch, professor of veterinary science at Montana state college, who has been investigating the disease.

The study has become the terror of the farmers in Eastern Montana and in Western North and South Dakota. Dr. Welch surmises the conclusion that a lack of iodine in the feed of the breeding stock is responsible for the birth of the pigs in a hairless condition.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

Waco is having a pretty large number of summer colds as they might be called, and residents are suffering therefrom. Getting too warm and then riding out into the cooler night air gave rise to many of them, according to the persons who have them.

Waco has been fortunate as to fires recently. In fact this city has much better luck all the time than most of her Texas sisters, thanks being due in large part to the excellent fire department here, which is recognized as one of the best to be found anywhere.

Waco had a chapter of horrors last week and the week before. The hope is, however, that this may not be repeated the present week. It has long been held by newspaper men, though, that suicides, homicides and things of that character run in groups, there evidently being some psychological reason for this.

The formal opening Tuesday night next of the Y. W. C. A. is something which is claiming much attention just now. The institution secured a rapid grip on Waco, probably because of its great need, and the prediction is that if weather conditions are favorable there will be an attendance which will tax the building.

That this has been an unusually favorable season for trees is the statement made by local parties who have put out a great many of the shade producers. The rains came just right for them, the sunshine was mixed in the right proportion, and in every way the conditions have been almost ideal, resulting in good growth and a healthy condition of the trees which were put out during the winter and early spring.

Tomorrow night is the big night with the Maccabees, and the vote is then to be taken on the proposition to hold a state convention to consider the establishment in Texas of a Great Camp for the order. Texas has a membership large enough to secure the Great Camp and also has other requisites.

MAKING A LIVING IS PROBLEM

Farmers' Interest Almost Altogether in Production and Distribution.(By Fred W. Davis, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture.)

So much has been said and written concerning agriculture, one is liable to think that the whole problem should be on the high road to solution; but such is not the case. There are many reasons why agricultural advancement moves so slowly. It is the biggest subject on earth and a monster movement must necessarily move slowly. It is the most difficult vocation on earth. The farmer is both a laborer and a capitalist and has more indeterminate factors to contend with than is encountered in any other vocation—hence, lacks definiteness which determines profit and loss in other business propositions.

In every educational or ministerial undertaking money is lost, more in carrying the agricultural propaganda because of a lack of general permanent organization, such as our churches and public schools. Less attention has been paid to fitting people for agriculture than any other great vocational line. The very nature of farming makes co-operation—the ruling spirit of the world—almost impossible. It isolates them, develops individuality, and the farmer delights in being his own boss. He hates to surrender anything personally for the common good.

Then the power of habit is as strong with farmers as with other people, and we only need to read the history of religion, science, jurisprudence, etc., to see how strong this force of accepted ideas is. These and many other reasons explain why farmers are slow to adopt new methods; why they are so ultra-conservative.

While there are many problems connected with the whole subject of rural advancement, yet boiled down, the farmers' interest settles mainly in what we broadly call production and distribution.

PRODUCTION NOT ON SCIENTIFIC PLANE.

Production, the first and easier problem of the two, is not yet advanced to the point where it can be said to be either scientific or economic. The much preaching which has been done from the stump and through the press has done a great deal to direct the attention of the general public to the preponderant importance of agriculture, but the time is getting ripe for specific applications of better farming ideas. So many of the farmers are the advocates of better farming, and so few tryouts are being made that many farmers believe that most of those who are advocating new and more scientific methods would stand by if they were given a farm fully equipped and were compelled to make a living on it.

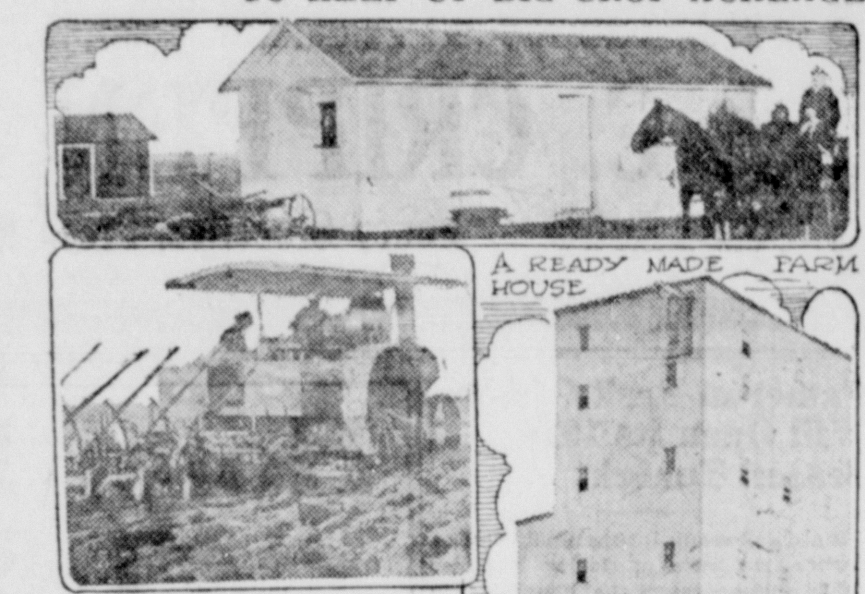

There are really reasons for such suspicions if we but look at the question from the standpoint of the average tiller of the soil. All public efforts at farming have to be liberally backed by public appropriations. Our convict farms lose money in spite of the fact that the farms are fertile and well equipped. We have a number of experimental farms in Texas, but their function primarily is to go into the field of research; consequently, they are not supposed to make money. Requiring an annual appropriation of thousands of dollars for experimental farms do not meet the economic demands of the everyday farmer, and because of this, many farmers living in counties adjoining the ones in which these experimental farms are established do not know their location.

MAKING A LIVING
IMPORTANT QUESTION.

If we will remember the most important of all questions with the average farmer is that of making a living, we should have patience with the seeming stubbornness of the men who have to cultivate poor farms poorly equipped, pay rent and feed and clothe their families. These farmers argue that with a better chance they could do better, and with their chance the so-called "farming expert" could not get it. They study our established farms from the standpoint of their purpose—which, as stated, is making a living. Why not answer such criticism by establishing farms with the make-a-living idea the main purpose?

We advocate diversification in order to maintain the fertility of the soil—the most sacred trust on earth given individuals—to make agriculture self-sustaining, and to increase the standard of living on the farm, etc. We advise that a small farm, well cared for, is sufficient to insure prosperity to the farmer, and we advise the purchasing of small farms for the purpose of having a stable, prosperous

Signature ofPATRIOTIC STRUGGLE IN CANADA
TO KEEP UP BIG CROP ACREAGE

RACING WITH NATURE

Seeding time is driving men and machinery to the utmost limit in western Canada in an heroic struggle to maintain the record crop acreage by which the fighting nations were fed last year. The enlistment without effort has been heavy in the prairie provinces, making short-handed those who have millions of acres to seed during the next few weeks.

American tractors burning Canadian oil are preparing the seedbeds by day and night. Working to the point of exhaustion, farmers are showing their patriotism far from the firing line. There is a dearth of men in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and men from the states find feverish demand for help. Contrary to reports, which are under probe for Teutonic source, Superintendent of Immigration W. D. Scott advised Canadian Pacific railway officials as follows:

"Those who come in to secure farmwork will not only find ready employment at good wages, but will ous and home-earning rural citizenship. Can we demonstrate in every county that the small farm, say forty acres, will pay? Can we demonstrate a self-sustaining agriculture, including the maintenance of soil fertility? Can we demonstrate to a man without a home that if he will manage his farm he can buy forty acres of land at the present prices and hope to make it pay out? If we can, what a stimulus it will give to progressive agriculture. What an advertisement it would be for Texas! It would practically solve the production side of our problem and lay the foundation for the more difficult market side.

I therefore suggest that the state, in co-operation with the counties, establish a forty-acre demonstration farm in each and every organized county within her borders. These farms, barring the initial step the first year, should be self-sustaining.

Should such farms be established, I do not think they should be the best land in the county—only average. Let the demonstrations be in reach of every ambitious citizen. Where counties have farms, usually established for the poor, such farms should be converted into demonstration farms and which preliminary expense could be saved.

Wishing to find a means to be of greater benefit to the unsuccessful and non-progressive element of our rural citizenship and disarm their prejudice, I offer the suggestions above for the consideration of the public. I desire to drive the subject home, bringing it to a show-down in each county.

I would like to hear from interested parties.

COTTON AND DEBT TO
COWS AND PROSPERITYH. S. Gabbert Quit the Old System of Farming and Has Made Good.

(Hillsboro Mirror.)

A READY MADE FARM

Mr. Gabbert states that in three years he has paid off $1500 indebtedness, spent $1000 for improvements, and made a living, increased the production of his farm and had on hand about $300 worth of surplus stock in the way of colts, calves, cows, not figured in elsewhere.

The facts and figures of Houston S. Gabbert, who lives just two miles east of Hillsboro, showing what he has done in a few years with a small herd of cows, makes interesting reading and shows the great possibilities for wide-awake farmers who keep dairy cows and some chickens and turkeys on the farm.

Mr. Gabbert, unlike a great many, from the fact that he can turn right to his books and show his receipts for each month of the entire time he has had his cows, and it is not guess work with him when he makes out the figures that he has done well.

At the solicitation of the Mirror, Mr. Gabbert furnishes facts regarding his crop receipts, profits, etc.

Late in the fall of 1909 he traded for the white rock mountain place he now owns and on January 3, 1910, he and his family moved to same and began preparing to make a crop.

The farm consisted of 153 acres with 120 in cultivation and 33 acres in pasture.

The first year he planted his place largely in cotton, only about 20 acres being planted in oats and corn. This he over the matter he decided to use what little money he had to buy some cows, provided the bank which he already owed about $700 would permit him to use this money to buy cows.

The bank agreed to do so, and Mr. Gabbert early in the year 1912 bought three good dairy cows and commenced selling milk and butter and devoting more attention to chickens and turkeys.

Mr. Gabbert was at first a little skeptical as to what Mrs. Gabbert was making the living from the cows and chickens and Mr. Gabbert and the boys were to run the farm.

During this year four more cows were purchased, making seven cows, and the cash received during the year from the sale of milk and butter, chickens and eggs amounted to $377.25.

The peach, which has lately become one of the important commercial fruits of the south is said to have come from Persia. The name "peach," botanically Amygdalus Persica, it will be seen, still retains its Persian designation.

It is said to have been introduced into Europe at the beginning of the Christian era. Candolle observes that the name for peach is not found in Hebrew or Sanskrit and he is inclined to think it of Chinese origin.

Darwin thought the peach new in plant history on the earth and that possibly it never grew wild. He believed it to have come from the almond, Amygdalus communis, which grows in the warmer regions of the Mediterranean sea. Davenport finds this argument fascinating and even more convincing than in Darwin's day. He agrees with Darwin that the space between the peach and its near relative the almond is not wide and may be bridged over by inferior specimens of the seedling peach, and he is inclined to think it of Chinese origin.

The neclarine is now generally conceded to be a "sport" or a "mutant" of the peach for occasionally peaches and neclarines may be found growing on the same tree. The explanation is that the tree, or a part of the tree, that has always borne peaches may suddenly begin to bear neclarines, after which it may produce either peaches or neclarines. "If these peaches be planted," says Davenport, "they will produce not peaches, as a rule, but neclarines."

Regardless of these strange things concerning the adaptations and history of the peach, the possibilities for improving this fruit are great. And it is encouraging to note that fruit growers are making use of their two opportunities. As an example we have but to mention Mr. J. W. Stubenrauch's work in selecting and improving varieties.

Weaning Calves.
C. M. Evans, livestock division, extension service, A. and M. college, gives the following advice on weaning calves: All calves of dairy cattle should be taken from the cows as soon as they have sucked once or twice. They should then be fed clean, warm milk from an absolutely clean pail. Give them one-tenth their weight of milk each day. At first this should be fed in three portions. After the calf is a week old, twice each day will suffice. In case calves have been raised to two or three months of age with the cow, they should be placed on the following ration: Wheat bran, two parts; milo maize or corn, two parts; cotton seed meal, one part; alfalfa hay or pasture at will. When they become accustomed to this ration they can be taken away from the cows, or if more practicable to leave them with the cows, provide a muzzle of good type on the calves.

Storing Wheat.
Replying to an inquiry from a Texas farmer, G. M. Garren, agronomist of the extension service of the A. and M. college, writes: "You can store your wheat in a cement granary, provided you give it ventilation until it passes through the sweating stage. Small grain, after being stored a short while in a light bin, passes through a sweating period and when that period is past the grain is safe. Having it in an airtight bin gives you a fine opportunity to treat it with carbon bisulphide for grain weevils."

Sudan and Johnson Will Cross.
G. M. Garren, agronomist of the extension service of the A. and M. college, warns farmers that Sudan grass will mix with Johnson grass and cautions those who grow Sudan for seed to be careful that it be given no chance to cross with Johnson grass.

CONVENTION TO REORGANIZE B. I. M. I. T.
(Houston Post.)

When the Buy-It-Made-in-Texas convention meets at the Rice hotel June 26 and 27, plans will be laid for the reorganization of the association with the idea in view of extending the scope of the organization and making its work effective.

Secretary Higgins of the association is in Houston perfecting arrangements for the convention and will establish headquarters at the Rice June 15. He said that the association has invited the industrial representative of the United States chamber of commerce to meet with the organization. While the reply has not yet been received to the invitation, Secretary Higgins is confident that it will be accepted and that the representative will be at the convention.

Plans for the next year or two will be outlined at the convention for the association, the biggest part of the activity of this period to be laid in Houston.

Mr. Higgins will have a meeting with Secretary Bodd of the Chamber of Commerce, together with committees from that body, to outline the program for the convention. He says that there will be efforts made to have work of the past year or two years, but the quality of the work, he explained, was better. President Bralley closed his address with the reading of a telegram from Mayor Henry D. Lindsey of Dallas, stating that unforeseen matters that required his attention had arisen and prevented his being here to deliver the commencement address, but that he sent his private secretary, W. C. McGintie, and also a former Denton man, to take his place and read the address he had already prepared.

Mayor Lindsey's address, read by McGintie, congratulated the graduates for their education by the state and the major part of the address dwelt on education by the state and benefits arising from it.

CANNING AND POULTRY
CLUB PARADE

(Temple Telegram.)
If the present plans go through, Saturday, June 10, will be a gala day in Temple and the Bell county canning and poultry club members will be right in the center, and every eye will be turned to the attraction.

They are all planning a big parade and demonstration and "town" picnic.

According to Miss Henley, who has charge of the canning and poultry club, the affair will be the biggest of its kind ever put on in the state. There will be more members to take part than there were last year and a lot of them will get to ride in the parade.

Big floats, drawn by horses and mules dressed up in their Sunday harness, will lead the procession and the exhibitors on these floats will give a comprehensive idea of the work of the club. The results that may be expected of it all. To tell just how each will be arranged might tear down somebody's playhouse, says Miss Henley, but she does give out the hint that the last big parade will carry a cooking stove properly fired up and the process of canning will be demonstrated on this wagon. It will be stopped on the public square for the purpose of the demonstration will be kept in process on this float.

The girls will all be dressed out in homes for the feeble-minded I'm the least likely to remain. Why didn't I make sure Amy would be here before coming all that distance on a three-day limit? These and other thoughts as cheerless crowded each other in Gerald's mind.

He managed to be courteous and attentive to Mrs. d'Laire, vaguely hoping thereby to gain an advantage with her niece. Although the aunt was cordial to him, he could see that she was equally cordial to several other young men, each of whom he suspected of having the same idea in mind as his own. Her aunt explained her absence as being a motor trip with "the Martins" and Gerald wondered whether "the Martins" included any unmarried male eligibles.

Gerald Mason flung the offending newspaper containing this unwelcome announcement all the way across the dining-room to his mother's big lounge, of which she was the only occupant except the caretaker and the cook. After a lonely dinner, with a lonely evening facing him, this gossip item was like a slap in his face, for business had not been so good since Amy Masterston flitted about at a summer resort, and business had summed him to another city right on the eve of Amy's departure, thus preventing even a satisfactory good-bye to his niece. The paper market had fluctuated and flared as often as had his feelings for Amy, and his hopes that she might entertain some tender feeling for him had been equally intermittent.

As he read this gossip of the society column, Gerald realized the danger of remaining away from Amy at this time, and as he reflected upon the complicated state of the paper market, he realized the danger of remaining away from business long enough to make more than a flying visit to the distant place where Amy was summering.

He cursed his luck that his business was not carried up a railway ticket office and engaged a berth on the midnight train for the Atlantic coast. Fifteen minutes later he was throwing things into a handbag and surveying the contents of a huge suitcase to see if he had put in all the necessities of a three-day trip.

A week-end visit to Amy's summer resort seven hundred miles away was a some sight, he walked over, picked up the paper, and once more read the pertinent comment about Amy. A moment later, he stalked across the room and into the telephone closet where he called up a railway ticket office and engaged a berth on the midnight train for the Atlantic coast.

Fifteen minutes later he was throwing things into a handbag and surveying the contents of a huge suitcase to see if he had put in all the necessities of a three-day trip.

With the queer way one has of looking back again at something that is a lost cause, he walked over, picked up the paper, and once more read the pertinent comment about Amy. A moment later, he stalked across the room and into the telephone closet where he called up a railway ticket office and engaged a berth on the midnight train for the Atlantic coast.

The results that may be expected of it all. To tell just how each will be arranged might tear down somebody's playhouse, says Miss Henley, but she does give out the hint that the last big parade will carry a cooking stove properly fired up and the process of canning will be demonstrated on this wagon. It will be stopped on the public square for the purpose of the demonstration will be kept in process on this float.

The girls will all be dressed out in homes for the feeble-minded I'm the least likely to remain. Why didn't I make sure Amy would be here before coming all that distance on a three-day limit? These and other thoughts as cheerless crowded each other in Gerald's mind.

He managed to be courteous and attentive to Mrs. d'Laire, vaguely hoping thereby to gain an advantage with her niece. Although the aunt was cordial to him, he could see that she was equally cordial to several other young men, each of whom he suspected of having the same idea in mind as his own. Her aunt explained her absence as being a motor trip with "the Martins" and Gerald wondered whether "the Martins" included any unmarried male eligibles.

Gerald Mason flung the offending newspaper containing this unwelcome announcement all the way across the dining-room to his mother's big lounge, of which she was the only occupant except the caretaker and the cook. After a lonely dinner, with a lonely evening facing him, this gossip item was like a slap in his face, for business had not been so good since Amy Masterston flitted about at a summer resort, and business had summed him to another city right on the eve of Amy's departure, thus preventing even a satisfactory good-bye to his niece. The paper market had fluctuated and flared as often as had his feelings for Amy, and his hopes that she might entertain some tender feeling for him had been equally intermittent.

As he read this gossip of the society column, Gerald realized the danger of remaining away from Amy at this time, and as he reflected upon the complicated state of the paper market, he realized the danger of remaining away from business long enough to make more than a flying visit to the distant place where Amy was summering.

He cursed his luck that his business was not carried up a railway ticket office and engaged a berth on the midnight train for the Atlantic coast. Fifteen minutes later he was throwing things into a handbag and surveying the contents of a huge suitcase to see if he had put in all the necessities of a three-day trip.

A week-end visit to Amy's summer resort seven hundred miles away was a some sight, he walked over, picked up the paper, and once more read the pertinent comment about Amy. A moment later, he stalked across the room and into the telephone closet where he called up a railway ticket office and engaged a berth on the midnight train for the Atlantic coast.

Fifteen minutes later he was throwing things into a handbag and surveying the contents of a huge suitcase to see if he had put in all the necessities of a three-day trip.

With the queer way one has of looking back again at something that is a lost cause, he walked over, picked up the paper, and once more read the pertinent comment about Amy. A moment later, he stalked across the room and into the telephone closet where he called up a railway ticket office and engaged a berth on the midnight train for the Atlantic coast.

PESTS IMPORTED IN GINNED COTTON

TO PREVENT FURTHER LOSSES, EGYPT PROHIBITS ALL IMPORTATION.

Pink Boll Worm Introduced from India—Boll Weevil Also Feared.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, May 28.—As a result of the introduction into Egypt of the pink boll worm in badly ginned Indian cotton, the Egyptian government now prohibits the export of cotton growing interest of the country and at the same time imposes no more restrictions upon the industrial use of foreign cotton than are essential.

It is interesting to note that in 1904 Egypt prohibited the importation of American cotton seed on account of the danger of introducing the boll weevil into that country. In 1909 this law was extended to include the introduction of cotton growing interest of the country and at the same time imposes no more restrictions upon the industrial use of foreign cotton than are essential.

In 1913 all forms of cotton except the ginned fiber were barred. Shortly after this it was discovered that bales of lint imported from India contained considerable quantities of seed and that living pink boll worms were contained in considerable numbers in this seed. It seems quite certain now that the pink boll worm was introduced into Egypt in badly ginned Indian cotton some time between 1903 and 1911, the dates representing respectively the beginning of such importations into Egypt and the first finding of the pink boll worm in Egyptian cotton. It is precisely this danger, which the United States government is now guarding against in requiring the fumigation of Egyptian and other foreign cotton. The discovery that the pink boll worm could be introduced in ginned cotton was made too late to protect Egypt from the pest, but, as a recent bulletin of the Egyptian minister of agriculture says, there are several other possible pests which might be imported in the same way.

In the case of this country the necessary precautions have been taken in time and the pink boll worm is still unknown here.

ABOUT CANE PRODUCTION

Mills Will Probably Furnish Seed for Planting to Develop Industry.

(Mission Times.)

For the purpose of encouraging the production of sugar cane and the development of the sugar industry, the San Benito Sugar company is contemplating arrangements whereby assistance will be given planters in financing their cane crops.

It is understood that the operators of the four sugar mills in the valley are considering similar plans. Since the recent action of the United States senate, resulting in retaining the tariff on sugar, many interest has been taken in the development of the industry generally and several men representing large capital of New York have interested themselves in the low-land cane crops.

The sugar mill here, in charge of W. C. Shaw, is now being overhauled and put in perfect condition for the coming grinding season. Mr. Shaw expects to grind a large percentage of the cane grown in the valley at the San Benito mill. The entire acreage is estimated at 2,700 acres, which is expected to produce about 400,000 tons of cane. Any one of the five mills would handle the whole crop, it is stated.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR EXISTS AT PRESENT TIME.

"There is an actual shortage of sugar in the world at present," said Mr. Shaw, "and it is my opinion that the price does not go up, but it is expected to go down. A short crop was produced in Cuba last year and they realize they will have another short one this year. It will be a long while before the production in France and Germany can even supply the home demand."

Last year cane was brought from a wide territory to supply the local mill. Several carloads were secured as far west as Wharton. That the territory around San Benito was the logical place for the production of cane for the San Benito mill and if the whole tract were devoted to this crop there could be no danger of overproduction. The low freight rates which apply would enable the owners to dispose of their supply to other mills without great expense.

That cane can be profitably grown in this soil and climate has been proved by the success of the cane grown in five years it is estimated that the cost of production amounts to $1 a ton for raising and 75c a ton for harvesting it and getting it to the mill. Seven dollars a ton is considered a fair average for the mill to pay. An average of thirty to forty tons an acre can be produced.

The greatest expense of the crop is in planting. This is when the cane is planted in the soil. It is considered probable that the mills will arrange to furnish the seed to responsible farmers who will make settlement when the crop is harvested.

As many as seven or eight cuttings have been made from one planting in the valley, but the best results are obtained in replanting every four or five years.

"It is far ahead of Louisiana, which is the greatest cane producing section of the United States," said Mr. Elhardt. "Louisiana raises an average of twenty tons to the acre and the crop is always an uncertainty. They have to contend with frost and rain. If rain falls at the time the crop should be cultivated it frequently results in ruining the crop. In this country, even though there should be a heavy rainfall, the ground is never so dry that the cane is always sufficiently dry within twenty-four hours after to proceed without danger of damaging the land. The frost experienced here are never heavy enough to kill the cane. Planters here are compelled to replant every three or four years, while the stock here produces well for four or five years and even longer. The average production here is twenty tons to the acre. With close attention and proper cultivation the crop here may be said to be an absolute certainty."

On the Jackson farm near Brownsville, forty-four tons to the acre were produced in the first year the cane was planted. The crop for the second year averaged thirty-eight tons to the acre. The third year, owing to the fact that changes in the sugar tariff made the cane business unprofitable, the cane was abandoned. A volunteer crop came up which was later sold for $465. The farm comprised thirty acres. Since that time cultivation has been resumed and the eighth crop will be harvested this year from the first planting.

Ration for Dairy Cows.

C. M. Evans, livestock division, extension service, A. & M. college, suggests the following ration for dairy cows:

The best feed for dairy cows is good pasture supplemented with either clover, peanut or alfalfa hay and one pound per day of the following grain mixture for each four pounds of milk produced:

Wheat bran, by weight two parts. Cotton seed meal, by weight one part. In case no pasture is available, it becomes highly important that the cows receive about thirty pounds of silage per day for each 100 pounds of live weight. Salt should be given in small quantities, but it is still advisable to feed some day.

For Pig Club Boys.

C. M. Evans, livestock division, extension service, A. & M. college, writes to a pig club boy as follows about the care of his pig:

"You may safely feed your pig all he will eat of wheat, corn or peanuts throughout the summer. At present the price of wheat, unless you have a very cheap source, you will find it cheaper to feed only corn or peanuts for grain. In addition, if possible, give him table slop or skimmed milk. It is highly important that the pig be kept green. This is done by giving him green weeds pulled from the garden or cut sorghum, sudan grass or green corn. If your pig is receiving a balanced ration of grain and water, there is no danger of him getting too fat. If the pig should be fed on nothing but corn, it will grow slowly and put on too much fat for its size."

Killing Fleas.

C. M. Evans, livestock division, extension service, A. & M. college, answers an inquiry how to kill fleas, says: "Clean out all trash and litter from under sheltered places and spray with a three per cent solution of some strong stock dip. Then sprinkle the premises with lime. Dip all dogs and cats in a 2 per cent solution of some good stock dip. If troubled with 'stick tight' fleas on chickens, grease the affected parts with common lard, to which has been added ten per cent of kerosene."

Livestock Notes

WORK OF TICK ERADICATION WELL UNDER WAY.

(San Angelo Standard.)

Dipping of cattle is in progress on at least four ranches in the Tom Green county, and tick eradication is well under way. These favorable conditions were reported by J. B. Webb, state livestock inspector, and Oscar Miller, one of the county inspectors, when they came to San Angelo to confer with J. Will Johnson, member of the state livestock sanitary commission.

Stockmen throughout the country are evidencing a new and more active attitude toward ticks and many small herds are being discovered which are practically clean. This indicates that the fight against ticks has been waged for some time, although the official order only became effective a few days ago.

Mr. Welch, the first of the Walter Spaulding, who leaves San Angelo on May 31 for Menardville, where he will superintend the dipping for J. B. Webb. The terms of the deal were not made public. The sheep are coming two-year-olds and are of splendid grade. They had been taken to the Rives ranch on Lipan creek.

HOLSTEIN CATTLE SHIPPED INTO ABILENE SECTION.

(Abilene Reporter.)

Forty-eight head of Holstein cattle arrived in Abilene Saturday afternoon after a trip from Fort Worth. The cattle were unloaded at the Texas and Pacific wharf between 6 and 7 o'clock.

M. Steward, local dairyman, went to Wheeler and bought the cattle, bringing them to Abilene. They are full-blooded Holsteins, mostly of the red and white color. Mr. Steward has twenty-five of the cows and yearlings. J. F. Handy got six calves, Oscar Miller got two calves and the others will go to parties at Sweetwater.

This is the first large importation of Holsteins into the Abilene country and marks an epoch in dairymaking. Although the cattle were badly scoured, the owners, who are more particular than they are at present, says the Drovers' Telegram. These reports show that in the struggle for the holding of the Butter Chase, Waunsee and Lyon counties, there is not an available pasture large enough to graze 100 aged steers unscoured.

"We are still receiving calls for pasture," said G. S. Johnson of Butler county. "Early in the spring we did not think our pasture was filled, but they are overflocking and the demand has not been satisfied."

Following the regular grading districts, cattlemen from other sections of Kansas where summer grazing is not carried on so extensively, have recently been making purchases of Texas steers. On the ranch and stock farm of F. J. Humold of Dickinson county there were several hundred head of steers, mostly of choice four-year-old Panhandle steers. These cattle were bought from Bolton & Doham of Amarillo, Texas, for $2.50 a head. The cattle were turned on good pasture for the season. A little further west, in the river valley country, the first of this month 1,300 head of aged steers have been landed, the bulk of them coming from New Mexico, with the balance of the cattle coming from that state had not moved from there in previous seasons.

Every available pasture in my community is now filled with cattle," said H. J. Jensen of Morris county, Kan. "They came from various points until all the available pastures were filled. This proved quite a surprise to us, as little was done in the way of leasing pastures and arranging for the sale of cattle at the time when these transactions are generally made."

Pure Breed Hogs Will Be Sold at the Coming Fair.

An announcement of great interest to hog breeders throughout the southwest has been made by E. L. Flippin, director of the swine division of the Texas State Fair. On October 29 and 31 Mr. Flippin states, the members of the Texas Swine Breeders' association will be held for the sale of pure bred hogs at the state fair, approximately 100 registered sows and twenty-five registered boars. The list of animals to be sold will be made up from those which have been exhibited in the various breeders' classes and no animal will be sold for less than $10.00. The animals will be made up from those which have been regularly entered for exhibition purposes. This will insure the quality of the stock to be offered.

Association of Mohair Growers is Chartered.

The charter of the National Mohair Growers' association has been filed in the secretary of state's department. The headquarters of the company will be at Buffalo, Utah county, and its object is to do business on a national scale. A capital stock of $1,000 has been provided for. The incorporators are John E. McGuffey of Buffalo, W. H. Straton of Laguna, P. C. Wirt of Montell, U. S. Grant of Dallas, J. S. W. Holder of Kirkland, Ariz., M. L. W. Holder of Dallas, Cal., and J. S. W. Holder of Lawrence, Kan. This is more than double last year's membership. The best return on the investment in the past year was made by Vernon Moody, son of C. W. Moody of Waco, who cleared $31 on his $5 loan. The age of members this year ranges from 7 to 16 years. The pig club is a good thing. More of them are in order.

Granbury Feeder Breaks Record.

A new high mark was made for fat heaves on the Fort Worth market Tuesday when shipment of seventeen steers averaging 1,152 pounds sold at $9. These were high grade shorthorns and had been fed by Jake Green of Fort Worth, a regular shipper to the Fort Worth packing plant. This was the highest price ever paid for fat heaves in the show ring, on an open market. Choice prime heaves are now selling from $8.50 to $9 on the Fort Worth market and baby heaves sell as high as $9.25.

Buy 5,000 Calves.

Mainview John M. Gist of Plainview has bought from Littlefield & White, 5,000 calves of the L. F. D. brand on the Yellow House ranch near Big Spring, Tex., such November calves. Mr. Gist will move them to his ranch in Bailey county, N. D. This week he will ship them to the Fort Worth market. Fred Wolfe, paying stock man, has county bull of that age. The cross between a white bull and a red cow, which Mr. Cochran desires, is a roan calf.

Mr. Jones also reports the sale of a Duroc boar pig to Robinson Bros. for $25. This pig is sired by Mr. Jones' herd boar which was killed ribbon at the Dallas fair in October.

TAYLOR-CALLAHAN QUARANTINE LINE.

(Abilene Times.)

J. F. Cunningham was in Fort Worth last week to see the sanitary livestock commission, to report that the quarantine line between Taylor and Callahan counties became effective Saturday.

An additional inspector is to be put on June 1, and it is urgent that dipping vats be ready for use by that date. He says the stock yards saw yearlings from above the line sell for $5 per head more than the same grade from below the line.

SMALL MILKS WANTED.

(Kerrville Sun.)

Frank King, the well known San Antonio horse and mule buyer, kept his appointment in Kerrville Tuesday and bought a carload of horses and mules. This carload was made up of some of the best animals on account of the war, but Mr. King said the army wanted smaller milks than most of those offered. That at the time he had a lot of small milks, he wanted for pack mules in the service in Mexico, and in the Philippines.

Sheep Shipments.

(San Angelo Standard.)

Two shipments of sheep were made from West Texas points to Kansas City during the week ending May 27. The first shipment, 2,500 head of muttons from Barnhart on Thursday. John W. Cannon of this city, whose ranch is near Sheffield, loaded out 750 head from Girvin.

Kansas Pastures are Overflowing.

Reports received in Kansas City from the grazing territory of Kansas show that this year the season almost as many cattle have been received there from Texas and the southwest territory as in the previous year. The cattle are more plentiful than they are at present, says the Drovers' Telegram. These reports show that in the struggle for the holding of the Butter Chase, Waunsee and Lyon counties, there is not an available pasture large enough to graze 100 aged steers unscoured.

This Ordinary Hen Becomes Envious; Lays Unusual Egg

(Dallas Times-Herald)

"It pays to advertise," was very much in evidence, according to one of the hens belonging to E. A. May, 846 Lee street, Oak Cliff. This feathered dame became envious of the vast amount of publicity given to Rhode Island Reds, Wyandottes, Cochins and other "high brow" in poultry society and decided to show the public that she neglected back-yard pullet has some glass and did not have to have a pedigree to show what she could do. As a sample of her ability, on Sunday morning this said ordinary hen laid an egg with two distinct shells covering. The egg was unusually large. The outer shell was hard as on other eggs, while the inner shell was slightly soft, but without a break. It was brought to the Times-Herald office by J. W. Griffin, 345 Lee street, a neighbor of Mr. May.

BAD EGGS TABOOS BY FOOD DEPARTMENTS.

(Beaumont Journal.)

Both the state and federal pure food departments and the city health officers have placed the ban on bad eggs and the law with reference to this food will be enforced with the letter. The health department is taking steps to prevent the shipment and sale of bad eggs. The state pure food and drug commissioner is also sending out instructions how to deal with the law. The local health officers have been instructed to inspect commission houses and others handling eggs and to see that the product is shipped according to law.

The following instructions from the state pure food and drug commissioner will be found valuable to shippers of eggs: To avoid penalties of this pure food law, all dealers are required to candle all eggs and to throw out all spots, blood rings and rots.

Inspectors of the department and all police and health officers of the state are instructed to enforce these provisions of the law. Provide plenty of clean, dry nests for your hens, in accessible places. Gather the eggs daily in cool weather and twice a day in hot or rainy weather. Do not wash eggs. Use the dirty and small eggs at home. Keep eggs in a cool, dry place which is free from eggs.

Do not keep eggs near oil, onions and the like, as they readily absorb odors. Market your eggs daily if possible; if not, every other day. Do not sell eggs which are found in a stolen nest. Keep the eggs out of the sun when taking them to town. Kill or sell roosters as soon as eggs for hatching have been selected. Hidden nests in the weeds furnish many rots. Straw stack eggs are usually musty and unfit for food.

REASONS FOR DAIRYING.

(Greenville Banner.)

Plenty of reasons can be handed out for most any kind of enterprise, but they do not always stand careful investigation because they are not in accord with practical knowledge, but these ten reasons for dairymaking meet the requirements because they are within the bounds of facts. Dairymaking with a well organized herd of dairy cattle on an average sized farm, offers the following advantages: It enables the dairyman to anticipate and receive a steady and regular income from the sale of milk.

The sale of surplus young stock and cows furnishes an income in addition to the income from milk, that adds to the profits. It makes a home market and pays higher prices for farm crops than are ordinarily paid at commercial centers. It utilizes grass and various kinds of feed that have no market value except as they are converted into milk or other saleable products.

It provides a means of employing labor regularly and profitably at all seasons of the year. It makes the farm permanently productive by the utilization of feeds on the farm and the use of farm manures. The regular income from the sale of dairy products and stock, and one to keep up the price in the possession of a farm home.

Dairymaking offers one a great opportunity for becoming a thorough business manager and enjoying the game of trading in milk. It produces a human food for which there is no substitute and for which there will always be a constant demand and an opportunity to supply at reasonable prices.

It offers a most suitable environment for the development of high standards of living both for a family and a community.

SAVING IRISH POTATOES.

(Farm and Ranch.)

The land that is now in spring crop Irish potatoes may be planted in another garden or truck crop with fair expectations. One of the legumes such as snap beans, teparies, lima beans, cowpeas, soybeans, etc., will use would be a good crop to follow the Irish potatoes.

Care should be taken in digging Irish potatoes. The tubers should be mature, but had best be taken up promptly after they are ready to be dug. The tops falling over and the foliage turning yellow as a result of maturity. Of course the potato digger is the implement to use in harvesting Irish potatoes when one has a large acreage to dig. For the small patch in the garden a turn plow or a sweep may be ample. Digging with a grub hoe is hard work and few gardeners will enjoy it.

The tubers are generally taken to a cool place as soon as possible, as the hot sun should not shine on them after they are dug. The tubers should be sorted, put in baskets and handled carefully. Bruised tubers will not keep.

The tubers should be put in a cool place and spread out so that they will not touch. Then if air-slaked lime be sprinkled over them they will be far less likely to rot. Notice the tubers are in the western part of the county and see trees laden with fruit but the pear trees are said to be making a remarkably good showing.

WATERMELON WILT IN CHAMBERS COUNTY

LARGE PER CENT OF MELONS BEING KILLED BY DISEASE IN SOME SECTIONS.

No Method of Control Is Known—Crop Rotation Being Urged for Relief.

Austin, May 28.—The state department of agriculture has just received specimens of diseased watermelon vines collected in Chambers county by E. L. Tanner, entomological inspector of the department, who reports that in some sections of the above county from 75 to 80 per cent of the watermelons are being killed out by this disease.

E. C. Tharp, plant pathologist of the department, who made a microscopic examination of the disease, pronounced it the watermelon wilt, and gives out the following information in regard to the trouble, so that growers may understandingly handle the wilt should it make its appearance in their section:

"Watermelon wilt, not generally known in Texas, is common in the eastern Gulf states, where it affects cotton, cowpeas and other plants, as well as watermelons. The disease is strictly a soil trouble, caused by a Neocosmospora vasinfecta, and which is capable of indefinite existence in the soil for indefinite periods. It gains entrance to the plant roots, stops up the water-conducting tissue, and the consequent effect is indicated by the name 'wilt'."

"The disease appears to be as disastrous on one kind of land as upon another. Investigations go to show that although it works more rapidly in light soils, it is, in the end, prove as disastrous in black soil, the only difference being the slower death of the plant in the latter soil."

"Up to the present time there seems to be no absolute method of control, but a great deal of relief can be obtained by practicing crop rotation and by selecting seed from those plants that show the most resistance to the disease. These seeds can usually be obtained from plants which have proved resistant to a large degree in the same locality, but if planted in some other locality where conditions are different the disease may show up and the planter prove a disappointed planter."

Broom Corn Proving a Profitable Crop

(Mission Times.)

Broomcorn is proving to be one of the valley's most valuable crops. A conservative estimate places the acreage this year at about 100,000 acres, and the crop was planted early, there will be three cuttings.

Now the question is, are the growers prepared to take care of the crop? We learn that there is but one broomcorn dealer in this part of the valley. This is owned by H. W. Reinicke, G. W. Kohler, C. C. Andrews and E. C. Overmiller. These gentlemen have about 150 acres which they have taken care of in this part of the valley. They are not figuring on threshing more than their own crops, and it would seem that another thrasher and baler for this section would prove a profitable investment, since an outfit can be purchased for $450.

Mr. Overmiller expects broomcorn to average about 500 pounds to the acre, first crop, and will be ready for cutting by July 1, and will sell for not less than $150 per ton; second crop will be lighter and will probably sell for $100 a ton.

Preparedness is just as essential in farming as in all other things. Preparation for the broomcorn trade is no exception. It is a bid fair to be the best crop of broomcorn ever raised in the Magic Valley. Don't let any of it go to waste. If you do, just as much of the velvet is gone.

PAY BILLS WITH 'EM.

(Beeville Bee)

Chickens and eggs, butter and pork are side-lines that go with every farm in Bee county. As a result there is prosperity. In fact, without chickens and eggs, butter and pork, there is no money in chickens and eggs to such an extent that some folks who live here in Beeville pay their grocery bills with 'em and they haven't much ground, either; only a back yard.

FLOWER SHOW TO BE HELD JUNE 2

(San Angelo Standard)

The Horticultural society will hold its fall flower show on June 2 from 4 to 10 o'clock in the Masonic building. All those who grow flowers are urged to make entries, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

This is a subject that has a place in all minds in all times. And it naturally directs thought as to the comfort of the mother during that wonderful period of expectancy. Mothers who know recommend "Mother's Friend." It is an external remedy for the stretching muscles, enables them to expand without undue strain, assists the organs to crowd against nerves, to pull at ligaments, to thus avoid pain.

Thus restful days are assured, peaceful nights are experienced, morning sickness, headache, apprehension and other distresses are among the various things which women experience who rely entirely on "Mother's Friend." And by its effect upon the muscles the form is retained and they return to their natural, smooth contour after having been cramped by the pressure of the expanding organs. Any druggist will supply you. It is harmless but wonderfully effective. Write to Bradford's Regular Co., 418 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a specially written guide book for women interested in the subject of maternity. It will prove an inspiration. It contains information that every woman should know all about. Write today.

FT. WORTH -- 4 WACO -- 0

FENTRESS GETS REVENGE BY SHUTTING NAVIGATORS OUT IN FINE FASHION.

BREAKS OF GAME WITH PANTHERS

Cliff Hill Fans Eight, but Has Trouble All Along in Locating Plate.

Mister Roy Fentress got a little revenge yesterday. He pitched one of his old-time good games against the Navigators, and as a result had the league leaders eating out of his hand for nine innings. League leaders sure, for Galveston lost a double-header and went back to second place.

Somebody remarked that the old Fentress jinx had come back, but there wasn't anything about a jinx in that pitching performance yesterday. The truth of the matter was, the old Fentress arm, and the old Fentress cunning and control came back.

Oh, of course, he was favored by the breaks of the game, but it has often been remarked that the breaks most often go where they belong. The close observer yesterday noticed that Fentress never was in trouble on control; he never had to groove a ball during the game, working to the corners altogether and keeping every ball he pitched right in the spot that was the hardest for the batter facing him to hit effectively.

Lefty Hill, on the other hand, was in control trouble right from the first man, and while he struck out a good many batters, he also walked six and allowed hits from having to groove the ball after getting in the hole.

PANTHER WIN WAS ENJOYED BY FORT FANS.

Everybody knows the old saw about the ill wind. Yesterday's win for Fort Worth certainly blew good for somebody. It wasn't particularly enjoyed, of course, by the local Sunday crowd, but a big and noisy and increasingly jubilant bunch of fans that had come down from "The Port" certainly did enjoy the session. They went home last night singing "The End of a Perfect Day."

Local fans never had a chance to root back. The Nave looked at their worst, both in the field and at bat. The only effective come-back Wacoans had was to call the attention of the Fort Worth bunch to the league standing and invite them to stay over until Tuesday and help raise the pennant. However, the Panthers weren't dealing in futures or pasts—they were living strictly in the present and enjoying it to the limit.

And these Panther boosters had everything their own way right from the start. Lefty Hill started the evening by handing Stow four straight balls. McLaurin tried to bunt, but failed. Finally Stow got tired of waiting for the bunt that wouldn't come and stole second. Mack, evidently believing he had done his duty, let Hill strike him out. Hunter walked. Melver hit a ball that was perfect for a double play, catching Tanner close to second and going in, but on the last hop the ball took it bounced badly, went for a hit and allowed Stow to score. Pezold struck out and Manda filed out to left.

HILL WORKS OUT OF BAD HOLE IN THIRD.

Hunter opened the third with a hit to right on which James made a mighty close play in an attempt to throw the batter out. Melver doubled to the club house. With third and second occupied and nobody out, it looked good for more Fort Worth failures, but Pezold and Manda went out on short flies to James and Jakey grounded out to Grubb.

After the fourth inning, McLaurin and Melve formed a combination that added a run to the Fort Worth string every time they came up. In the fifth McLaurin doubled, was sacrificed to third by Hunter and after Melver had drawn a walk was squeezed in by Pezold, whose bunt wasn't handled and went for a hit.

McLaurin started the seventh with a walk. Hill caught the runner off first, but the perfect throw got away from Wobleben and he went all the way to third. Hunter struck out, but Melver singled for the tally.

McLaurin started in the ninth, getting on again when his slow hit rolled away from Tanner. Hunter sacrificed. Melver hit between Grubb and Tanner for a scratch safety and Pezold again worked the squeeze successfully.

JAMES ONLY NAV REALLY ON THE JOB.

Jesse James was the only effective Nav—not only getting two hits and a walk, but also pulling down what looked like a clean-up wallop by Jakey in the fifth. Two men were on at the time and two out when Atz hit a beauty square between James and Pezold. James was away at the crack of the bat, but it didn't look like he had a chance. The curve of the ball, however, was in his favor and he made the catch look easy. Jesse reached second twice and third once, but Fentress didn't give succeeding batters a chance. Hill started the eighth by bunting and beating the ball, and when Hill bunted Fentress threw the ball away, but Coyle hit a made-to-order double play ball to Atz. In the ninth with one down Tanner singled. Grubb hit a do-or-die line-drive at Pezold. Wobleben singled, but the best Reilly could get was a roller to Fentress—and the classy veteran Panther slalman went home with the game.

and some choice revenge in his pocket. The score:

There is a Wide Variety of Bodices That Were Suggested by the Jumper of Other Days, and the Fashion is a Good One.

New York, May 28.—It is not easy to say just when the revival of the jumper took place. Throughout the last winter there was a sporadic fashion for this garment, which one might have thought was meant for economical reasons. If the revival for economical reasons, it has proved a price mark had been eliminated. But when one pays from $40 to $60 for a separate garment that hides the joining of the skirt and the blouse, then the thought of economy is an absurdity.

As the spring and fields of snow, the dressmakers showed every intention of making the jumper quite a feature of the season's costume. It was in keeping with the new movement that called for shirtwaist worn outside of the skirt. In fact, the jumper, smocks worn in the house as a substitute for blouses, and Russian blouses of thin silk or jersey cloth worn with sport skirts as a substitute for sweaters.

All through the fabric of fashion ran the thought of garments that fell straight from the shoulders, half way to the knees. Some were not. Some had ornamental bands stretching around the figure under the arms to give the First Empire effect, and some were held in around the hips with a knotted sash, in oriental style.

The significant thing is that the shirtwaist which went inside of the skirt and lent itself to a waistline which was sharply defined by the skirt, in the straight down the figure and hid the top part of the skirt.

THE NEW KIND OF JUMPER.

When this fact of fashion was established, France sent her a jumper of cloth or satin or corded silk that was cut out in a renaissance line at the neck, had long near-sharp pointed under the arms, was slit up each side from the hem nearly to the waist and had sufficient fullness to allow of a waist line at the side of the waistline, where they were caught with a button.

One of the best imported models was of blue silk broadcloth, embroidered in an arabesque of black silk braid, with a row of buttons of gun metal at the side. There was no belt. This was worn over a plain blue pleated skirt and a thin white blouse.

Since the warm season has advanced, there is a tendency to have jumpers made of light colored silks with Chinese embroidery, worn over suits of natural colored tussor, coral linen or finely striped muslin.

The revival of Chinese pongee in its several weaves is a very interesting feature of the summer fashions. It should be looked into by everyone who wants a comfortable period of time. The two designs that have been seen in the shops in this city are the stripe and the large polka dot, both in color.

A JUMPER IN THE EVENING.

The designers of summer evening gowns have shown an inclination to incorporate the jumper into their designs. The sketch shows this idea worked out in an admirable manner. The gown itself is of pink tulle, with a row of buttons of gun metal at the side. There is a flare out at each side that makes a skirt. The skirt is of a light color, with a row of buttons of gun metal at the side. The bodice is a short-waisted jumper of tulle, with wide shoulder-edges and a deep throat. Beneath it is a surplus of tulle with large silver flowers.

CANDLESTICKS AS THEY ARE.

In the present scheme of things candlesticks need no longer stand as mute adornments of the mantel shelf or buffet, but are called upon to do a good deal of work. They serve a real purpose and lose none of their attractiveness by being made into electric light fixtures. So if you have any old brass or silver candlesticks that you do not want to use as they were intended, send them to the nearest electrician and have them come at a slightly higher price and are quite as suitable for bedroom use as made with French floral design in plaster.

For the colonial living room or dining room you may buy mahogany standards in candlestick style for from $2.50 to $5. For use with black walnut furnishings or dark-stained oak nothing is more attractive than the new Japanese black shellac standards, also in the shape of candlesticks. Most of these have characteristic Japanese tones.

To be sure, when you have bought the standards the problem of lighting is only half solved. But, then, it is the hardest half. The rest of the work consists in selecting an attractive shade. And in doing this an ounce of taste is worth a bag of gold.

The stores are positively crowded with expensive lamp shades that neither you nor I would care to have in our own home. Of course, somebody buys them and the merchants would never stock up with them. So, if you are a great connoisseur to know that if you look long enough you may find the right shade at a price that is but a small fraction of the cost of some of the most impossible. For almost any living room interior the shade, made of a material called silk, is a great improvement. It is a soft, light shade with a little gold silk fringe, in an exceedingly good taste. For the shade is a similar shade in a soft old rose would rarely be out of taste. Japanese shops offer shades, also. Occasional shades made of heavy Japanese parchment paper on which are printed in soft tones a group of conventional Japanese figures. The frames of these shades are made of black japanned bamboo.

BAND MEMBERS WILL JOIN THE COMMAND IF EXEMPTION VOID MEET FOR PALACE IS PROBABLY OFF

One of the members of the Fourth Regimental band, who were originally excused by their officers from enlisting for Fort Sam Houston on account of strong family reasons, left for the military center last night to ascertain whether or not they had been authoritatively exempted by General Funston. It is understood that forty-one members of the national guard are in the family, released from service, according to yesterday's news dispatches, and the Waco members of the band are anxious to know whether they have been included in the number. James B. Dismukes, one of the band members, said last night that each of the men would not go willingly, but gladly, to join their command, if their exemptions, given by local officers, were not sanctioned. He emphasized the fact that it was no lack of patriotism that kept them from departing with the band, but that it was a matter of imperative necessity, the sickness in the family. Speaking for all four members of the band who remain in Waco, he said that if their representative at San Antonio today found that they had not been included in the exemption list, they would leave immediately for their command. He said that they would do this willingly, although they were under the impression when they enlisted for the regimental band that they would be permitted their option of re-enlisting for federal service.

It is Mr. Dismukes' information that the Fourth Regiment has been dispatched to Marfa, Texas. In the regimental territory will be stationed two companies of infantry, one machine gun company and the regimental band.

The band members here expect to hear from San Antonio some time today by wire as to whether or not they have been definitely exempted.

Baylor Senior Gets Loving Cup for His Church Loyalty

Earl Grogan, one of the seniors of Baylor university, who will get his diploma in the next few days, will carry with him as a college remembrance a loving cup of quite an unusual character. Loving cups are given in college for almost everything conceivable, but none of just this character is recorded in Baylor annals. Many Baylor students aren't themselves, as church workers with practically every congregation in Waco, but Grogan is the first one so far as is known who has received a loving cup for his loyalty and devotion to church work.

The loving cup is the gift of the Young People's Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church. It was presented by Miss Frances McLaran Saturday evening at a delightful social of the society at which Miss McLaran was hostess. Both Mr. Grogan and Miss McLaran have been leaders in the Second Presbyterian Endeavor society since their graduation in 1915. Mr. Grogan's home is in Dallas, where he will return after graduation, and Miss McLaran leaves the local Endeavorers within a few days, going to Galveston for a course in the state medical college.

City Ticket Offices Will Close Saturday Afternoon Now

Beginning next Saturday the city ticket offices of Waco will begin closing at 1 o'clock, and all the railroads here will observe this plan during the coming month.

The offices will follow this procedure until September 30, when they will once more begin keeping open during the afternoons on Saturday. A great many institutions have already initiated the Saturday afternoon closing, in order to give employees a chance to get a little more recreation, get out of the city of the week-end, and get back in town ready for work again Monday morning. It is claimed that this plan has been found to be the best thing even from a business standpoint, and that men and women capable of doing better work, besides the fact that the consideration shown is appreciated.

More and more the people here are beginning to realize that in the summer it is necessary to observe some care and caution in order to get through the heated term and conserve the energy of residents.

Excavation for New School Building to Begin This Week

Contractor J. E. Johnson, who is to construct the new ward school building at Twenty-fifth and Bosque boulevard, is assembling his material and will probably break dirt this week on the excavations for the building.

The new ward school is splendidly located for future growth, and will, it is thought, build up very fast. It will be a two-story brick building, with basement for heating plant and reasonable storage. Plans call for a very sightly structure and one which can be added to as needed.

The rapidity with which new school buildings are being demanded by conditions in Waco tells the story of this city's growth more eloquently than words and buildings and women are occupied before others are needed, though the school board does not supply the need until it becomes imperative.

Quorum of Water Board Not Present for Meeting

Owing to the absence of William Sleeper and R. H. Rogers of the city water board, the meeting of the board will not be held tonight. Mr. Sleeper is in Austin and Mr. Rogers is in Florida. Both are expected to return today or tomorrow, at which time a meeting of the board will be held. There are at present insufficient members to constitute a quorum.

Unknown to the great majority of Wacoans, except those interested in horsemanship or the casual visitors to the Cotton Palace in its off season, a number of race steeds have wintered at the exposition track, and during these spring days have been training diligently. Incidentally some of the steeds have shown up to good advantage, it is claimed. Interest of the race men at the track led to the proposal of a mid-summer meet, for a week around July 5, but it seems now that this idea will be abandoned.

E. E. Carroll, race commissioner of the Cotton Palace, said last night that the exposition directors had left the proposed meet up to Bob Nichols and other horsemen. It was proposed to fit the summer meet in line with the Louisiana circuit but the local baseball club would divide the interest on the dates proposed and this will probably mean the abandonment of the plan.

Several of the race horses which have wintered at the Cotton Palace stables have already been shipped to the opening races in Oklahoma and other points. Among the horses that are still at the stables are two young racers owned by M. L. Wilson, local Associated Press operator. These steeds are said to be showing up remarkably well for their first training season. Both came as raw steeds from the heart of the Kentucky racing district and are being whipped into form by Jockey Robert Moore from Lexington.

In a trial run yesterday Moore rode Thomas Boy one-eighth mile over the Cotton Palace track in 12 2-5 seconds. This is the training record for the year so far. The other horse in the race was a class, "Waco," made three-eighths mile in 41 seconds, which time would have been slightly faster except for a wide run at the heat of the stretch. Jockey Moore is a youngster with a record of having ridden some of the blue ribbon Kentucky steeds.

When It Rained From Ground Up

The man who got this inverted shower bath was evidently a stranger. He was sitting on a drinking fountain at the corner of Fifth and Austin contemplating the top of the Amicable building, visibly pleased with its appearance.

Two newswies were standing behind him discussing the relative merits of Ty Cobb and "Home-Run" Baker. One of them casually stepped on the foot of the stranger, released the water. The stranger was a little dull, but it finally "soaked in"—and when it did he came alive. He exclaimed, "deleted by censor." Which he was rendering in general and newswies in particular, the newswies in particular disappeared around the corner, and when the stranger was making what appeared to be a bee-line to a hotel.

Endeavorers Debate Mission Question

At the Young People's society of the Second Presbyterian church last night, Miss Corinne Quintus and L. L. Lunn on the affirmative, and Miss Frances McLaran and Robert Evans on the negative, were the speakers in a debate on the question, "Are Home or Foreign Missions Most Important?"

One meeting each month is in charge of the missionary committee. This was decided to have been the liveliest missionary program of many weeks.

At a called meeting of the executive committee for Wednesday night, a nominating committee, composed of Miss Annie Ruth McClellan, C. E. Boyd, Miss Monetta Strubling, L. E. Lunn, Mrs. W. E. Ligon and Ivan Hays will report their nominees for vice president and treasurer pro tem. The action of these offices is necessitated by the absence of the late appointees for an indefinite period.

Y. M. C. A. Gospel Team Gives Service at Bruceville

The Y. M. C. A. gospel team went to Bruceville yesterday, where they held services, attended by a large crowd. Those of the team who spoke were F. A. Winchell, D. C. Woods and Craig Dalton. The quartet who also went were J. B. Poteet, W. T. Wheatley, L. B. Stone and S. R. Hankins.

Services were also held at Moody last night by the team. They were in charge of John L. Hunter, who spoke at the First Baptist church to a mass meeting for men and boys at 4 o'clock. There was also a mass meeting at 8 o'clock at the Methodist church.

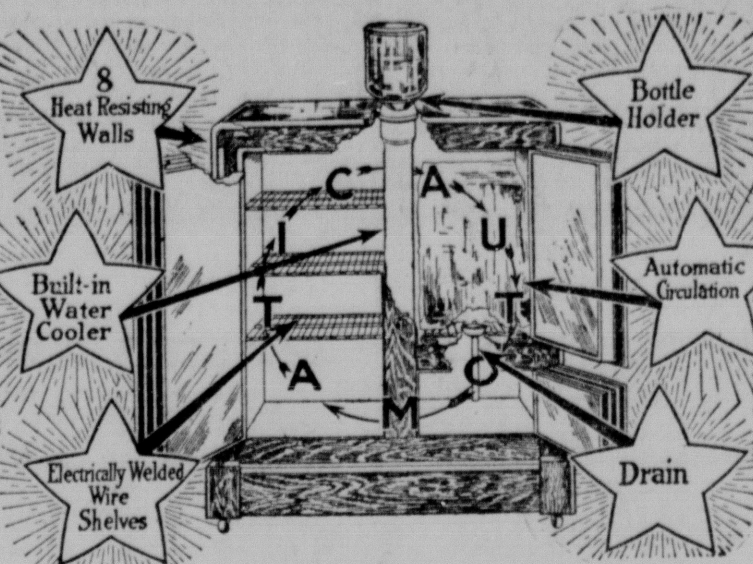

The team will go to Axtell and Arena next Sunday. The work of the team will close in October, when there will be a two days' convention of the churches in McLennan county. The last day of the convention will be featured by a county athletic contest.

Crops in West Texas Are Said to Be in Fine Condition

Commercial travelers returning from the West Texas country report that the crops in that section just now are especially good, following the generous rains of the last few weeks. More cotton than usual has been planted there and it is declared to be almost as far advanced as the cotton here. There is an abundance of kafir corn, milo maize, feterita and other foodstuffs for this year's harvest, it is declared. Oats and wheat were hard hit by the winter spells, but even if these do not pan out well, there will still be plenty of foodstuff, it is said. This makes the third prosperous year for a large section of Western Texas.

Mayor and Prominent Men Of City Molest Young Twins

They are only five days old. They are twins—a boy and a girl. They were born and are being raised under the strangest and most exciting conditions that any babies have ever experienced in Waco.

They will undoubtedly be the most precocious youngsters that ever struck town. During their five days of early residence they have doubtless seen more strange sights and listened to more exciting conversations than has been the lot of any other two little babies in Waco.

The parents are beginning to realize that they have made a serious mistake in the manner of bringing up their offspring, but they are absolutely helpless to remedy the situation, at least until the children are older.

They held a wordy and noisy family consultation concerning the puzzling condition of affairs yesterday afternoon, but like most arguments between married folks, it simply ended in words, the last one being spoken by—the usual one.

Relatives and rank outsiders have butted in with no end of advice. They quickly butted out, however, when the male member of the family jabbed them in the eye.

There is no question but that the parents and the twins would sleep better if the public would not continue to come in such close proximity to their home. No matter what they may happen to be doing at any hour of the day or night, some one is sure to happen along.

Yesterday while the babes were receiving their noonday luncheon, several debutantes, one of whom will marry the richest bachelor in Waco next October, accompanied by a silver-topped bachelor who serves the girls of Waco as a general gallant, pranced right by the home, all of the while talking at the same time. Mayor John Dollins followed right behind the party and had the bad taste to stop and stare at the mother and the kiddies.

Postmaster McCollum was the next intruder. Accompanied by a beautiful young lady, he stopped his new machine directly in front of their home and honked the horn in a most exasperating manner. If he only knew what the mother thought about him as she poked her head out of the front door, he would never honk that honker again in that section of the city.

Dr. Arthur James Barton, the brainy and retund head of the Anti-Saloon league, lengthily discussed the earth-quaky doings at the San Antonio convention, within seven feet of the side door.

Tom F. Bush, the new president of the Cotton Palace, James W. Bass, Flo Crespi, Will Abel, Langdon Lundie, Harry Moses Baine, W. V. Crawford, E. P. Drake, James Penland and a host of other prominent men caused a terrific rumpus in the household when they discussed the society ball and other Cotton Palace doings for

BAND MEMBERS WILL JOIN THE COMMAND IF EXEMPTION VOID

One of the members of the Fourth Regimental band, who were originally excused by their officers from enlisting for Port San Houston on account of strong family reasons, left for the mobilization center last night to ascertain whether or not they had been authoritatively excused by General Funston. It is understood that forty-one members of the national guard altogether have been released from service, according to yesterday's news dispatches, and the Waco members of the band are anxious to know whether they have been included in the number. James B. Dismukes, one of the band members, said last night that each of the men would not only go willingly, but gladly, to join their command, if their exemptions, given by local officers, were not sanctioned. He emphasized the fact that it was no lack of patriotism that kept them from departing with the band, but that it was caused of imperative necessity, like sickness in the family. Speaking for all four members of the band who remain in Waco, he said that if their representatives at San Antonio today found that they had not been included in the exempted list, they would leave immediately for their command. He said that they would do this willingly, although they were under the impression when they enlisted for the regimental band that they would be permitted their option of re-enlisting for federal service.

It is Mr. Dismukes' information that the Fourth Regiment has been dispatched to Marfa, Texas. In this regimental territory will be stationed two companies of infantry, one machine gun company and the regimental band.

The band members here expected to hear from San Antonio some time today by wire as to whether or not they have been definitely exempted.

Baylor Senior Gets Loving Cup for His Church Loyalty

Earl Grogan, one of the seniors of Baylor university, who will get his diploma in the next few days, will carry with him as a college remembrance a loving cup of quite an unusual character. Loving cups are given in college for almost everything conceivable, but none of just this character is recorded in Baylor annals. Many Baylor students align themselves with church workers with practically every congregation in Waco, but Grogan is the first one so far as is known who has received a loving cup for his loyalty and devotion to church work while a student.

The loving cup is the gift of the Young People's Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church. It was presented by Miss Frances McLaran Saturday evening after a delightful social gathering at which Miss McLaran was hostess. Both Mr. Grogan and Miss McLaran have been leaders in the Second Presbyterian Endeavor for several years and both are Baylor men. McLaran graduated in 1915. Mr. Grogan's home is in Dallas, where he will return after graduation, and Miss McLaran leaves the local Endeavorers within a few days, going to Galveston for a course in the state medical college.

The Hoffmannettes said last night, Gladden's orchestra will furnish the music for the ten numbers. The first number, the Globe Trot, will be given by nineteen couples, and another dance has thirty-two in it. The costumes and fairy-land features will make the evening one of winsome appeal. Among the numbers on the program are: The Firefly, Schubert's "Moments Musical," The Zephyr, Psyche, Pompadour, La Carmencita, a Spanish fantasy, Tarentalla and several solo dances.

None of the numbers is lengthy and it is planned to end the program before dusk. Spectators are urged to come promptly by 6:30 p. m.
